Senator Says 'Wait and See'
About Amendment's Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen refuses to concede the fight is over despite a second defeat of his proposed constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment. "Wait and see," the Senate Republican leader advised newsmen who wanted to know whether he would try to revive his proposed amendment at this session of Congress.

On a showdown roll call Wednesday, 55 senators voted for the amendment and 38 against it. This was seven short of the two-thirds majority required for approval of a constitutional amendment.

6 Pacifists Head for Reds

Group Forced to Leave Viet Nam
By Saigon Police

HONG KONG (AP) — Six American pacifists expelled today from South Viet Nam said on arrival in Hong Kong that they would try to go to Red China and North Viet Nam "in the search for peace."

The leader of the group, Rev. A. J. Muste, 81, of New York, said their previous attempts to get to Peking or Hanoi had not been successful "but now that we're in Hong Kong we will see if we can make any personal contacts here that might lead to visiting those two capitals."

If that fails, the minister said, he and four others in the group will return to the United States. A sixth member, Karl Meyer of Chicago, said he would try to get a visa for Cambodia "to see what the situation is there."

Wild Exit
Saigon police pulled the six pacifists kicking and protesting onto the plane for Hong Kong after blocking their attempt to demonstrate in front of the U.S. Embassy in the South Vietnamese capital. The Americans threw out antiwar pamphlets as they were hauled up the ramp to the plane.

Police roughed up several newsmen, seized the cameras of two television photographers and briefly detained a third cameraman during the wild exit scene at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

Five of the pacifists were brought to the airport in a police van five hours before they took off after police prevented their staging a one-hour antiwar vigil at the U.S. Embassy.

Missing Nearly 2 Weeks

North Carolina Boys In Milwaukee Boxcar

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two Fayetteville, N.C., boys who have been missing from their homes since April 8 were found today, alive but hungry, in a sealed box car standing on a Milwaukee siding.

The box car was loaded with cases of empty beer bottles and authorities said the boys apparently had kept alive for nearly two weeks by draining whatever few drops remained in each bottle.

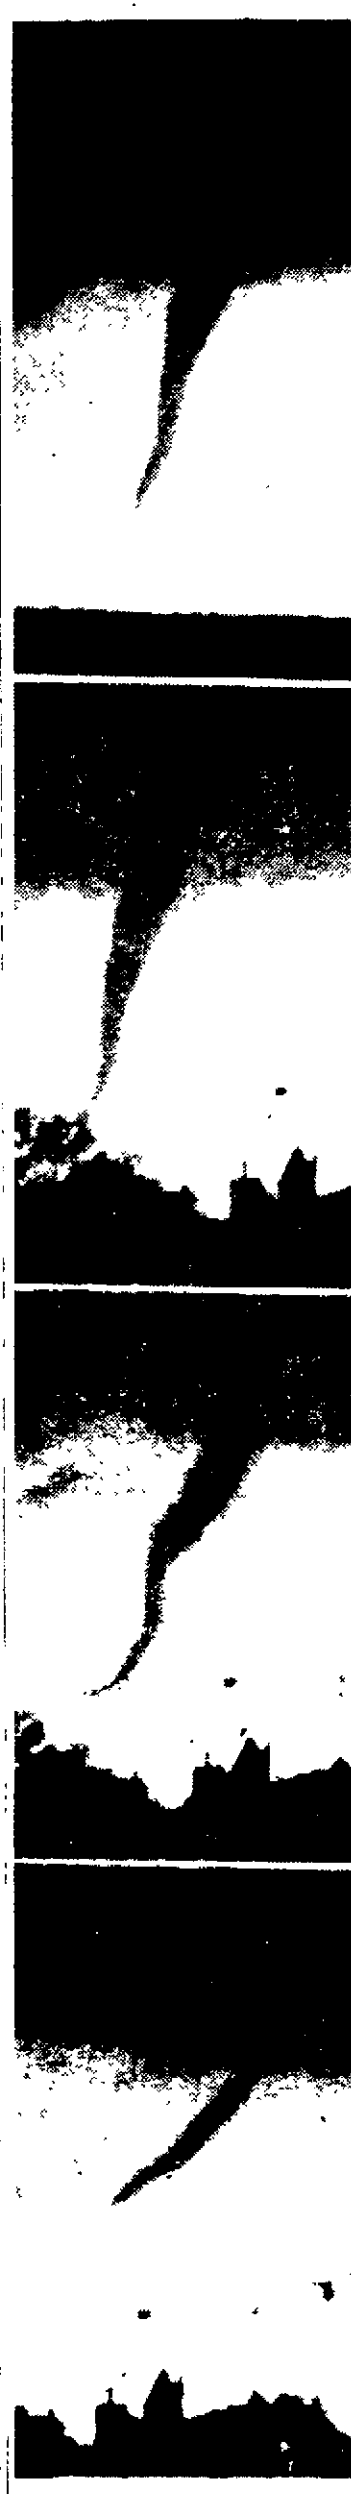

The two were identified as David Harvey, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Harvey, and 13-year-old William Waddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Waddell. They were taken to County Emergency Hospital where a spokesman said they apparently would require no major medical treatment.

Bike Riding
Fayetteville Chief of Detectives J. Earl Melvin told Milwaukee news men by telephone that the boys had been reported missing April 9, a day after they went out bike riding together. "The parents have been frantic," he said.

College Ave. Revamp Gets Council Approval

Rebuilding of Downtown
Business District Slated
To be Started Next Year

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Downtown Appleton's main business artery — College Avenue — will be redesigned, starting in 1967, according to a plan of Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis, Mo.

The decision was made Wednesday night by a solid 17-2 vote of the city council, climaxing about 10 years deliberation over what to do about the city's aging central business district.

Holding their first regular meeting since the annual council reorganization earlier in the week, aldermen gave the city engineering division approval to proceed with preparation of plans for the avenue reconstruction.

Seek Federal Aid
The council's street-sanitation committee also was directed to follow through on an application for federal matching funds for the street paving which will be but one phase of the major public works improvement.

Aldermen prepared to make the historic decision during a committee-of-the-whole session presided over by Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president and street-sanitation committee chairman.

It was the general feeling that the string had been run out on committee meetings, public hearings and deliberations on the proposed avenue reconstruction.

Aldermen were left with two choices — rebuild College Avenue and put it back in the same form or completely redesign the street and make it pedestrian-oriented as recommended in the city's comprehensive plan.

City, County Officials meet
A meeting of a group of city officials earlier in the day with the Outagamie County Board disclosed that Appleton might possibly pick up some federal funds but chances appeared remote at this time. It was indicated federal funds might also have "strings attached" which would dictate the design of the street and possibly be in direct conflict with the consultant's plan.

Strong support for redesigning College Avenue came in the form of a letter from Lawrence University officials, and read to the aldermen last night.

It cautioned city officials not to lose sight of the long-range objective of the comprehensive and central business district plans, and took a dim view of seeking $193,000 in federal funds if it meant abandoning the plan of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, which had been approved at previous public

Rail Explosion Takes 55 Lives In Eastern India

Rebel Tribesmen
May be Responsible,
Observers Believe

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Fifty-five persons were killed and 127 others injured Wednesday night in the second explosion within three months aboard a train in a rebellious area of eastern India, the Indian government radio announced.

The broadcast said the blast shattered several compartments of the Tinsukia-New Jalpaiguri train as it stood in Lumding railway station. Medical teams and investigators were rushed to the isolated town deep in the wild Naga hills about 350 miles northeast of Calcutta.

Guerrilla War
The cause of the disaster was not yet known, the radio said. But rebel Naga tribesmen in Assam State have been waging a guerrilla campaign for years against the central government's control.

The Nagas were blamed for two explosions aboard the Assam Mail Express on Feb. 16 in which 38 persons were killed.

Naga leaders recently conferred with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and pressed their case for establishment of a Nagas state. She pronounced the talks satisfactory, but one Naga faction wants to fight rather than to negotiate and the rebellion has continued.

Rebel Tribesmen
The Indian government also has been plagued by rebellion of the Mizo tribesmen in the hills of southeast India, south of the Nagas between East Pakistan and Burma. They overran the towns of Aijal and Langleh last month and it took at least a brigade of Indian army troops and planes to push them out. Langleh is about 200 miles south of Lumding.

The Indian government claimed its troops had crushed the rebellion but there have been signs that the Mizos were still fighting.

Strategic Pass Bombed Again

Allies Battle Red Battalion; Enemy Casualties Top 173

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops battled a mixed Viet Cong - North Vietnamese heavy weapons battalion today, killing at least 173 Communists in stiff fighting that broke a days-long lull in the ground war, U.S. spokesmen reported.

Marine helicopters landed the allied troops virtually on top of the enemy positions 10 miles west of Quang Ngai, on the northern coast, after they were pinpointed by a Viet Cong defector, officers reported. Heavy fighting broke out immediately.

In the air war against North Viet Nam, U.S. Air Force jets renewed assaults on approaches to the strategic Mu Gia Pass after thousands of laborers toiled day and night to reopen the landslide-clogged funnel to the Ho Chi Minh Trail, a U.S. spokesman said.

B52 Attack

Only eight days ago U.S. B52s dumped 700 tons of bombs on the winding mountain route on the Laotian frontier 230 miles south of Hanoi in the Strategic Air Command's first strike against the Communist North.

Maj. Gen. Lewis J. Fields of Salisbury, Md., commander of the U.S. 1st Marine Division, said the enemy dead in the battle near Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, may exceed 300. The combined allied force also was reported to have seized a large store of Communist weapons.

American and South Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

Late in the day more Marines were thrown into the action, and Fields said he thought the enemy was trapped.

Several battalions of U.S. and Vietnamese marines and airborne troops launched Operation Hot Springs after a Viet Cong, Nguyen Dinh Ky, 20, surrendered and pinpointed his unit's positions on a map during a helicopter tour with allied

Fires in October Destroyed
Catholic Church, Two Barns

Richard Allen Cornelius, 20, his absence of an attorney. The 48th time came late Wednesday morning when Judge Van Susteren asked him if he had a closing comment to make to the jury.

The only evidence presented and the only witnesses heard during the entire trial came from Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer for the state. He called 20 witnesses, many of them Cornelius' friends.

Main Evidence
Principal among state's evidence was an eight-page statement made Nov. 3 by Cornelius in which he confessed to setting fires to the church and two barns owned by George Verkuilen and Louis Petersen. He also admitted entering the church convent.

Judge Van Susteren had entered innocent pleas for Cornelius last month after the youth said he was "in no position to plead."

Continue Probe Of Two Recent Ship Disasters

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Commerce Subcommittee continued today its inquiry into two recent cruise ship disasters after hearing administration proposals to require increased safety standards on foreign flag ships.

Legislation recommended Wednesday by the administration included requirements that owners of passenger ships embarking from U.S. ports show ticket purchasers the fire safety standards with which the vessel complies or does not comply.

Another proposal called for establishment of bonding and insurance standards for the passenger ship operators.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., subcommittee chairman, said Wednesday he would introduce the administration proposals. His subcommittee is studying the disasters aboard the Viking Princess in which two died in the Caribbean and the Yarmouth Castle in which 90 died off Florida.

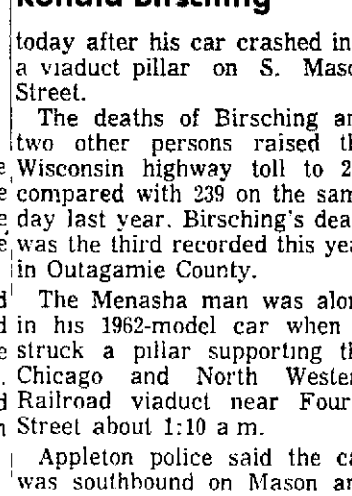

Unanimous Decision
The jury was required to concur or dissent unanimously on each of the four charges. Jurors began deliberations at 10:37 a.m. Tuesday, recessed for lunch at 11:58 a.m. and returned at 1:30 p.m. Norman Foxgrover, 601 Forester Ave., Kaukauna, was chosen jury foreman.

Judge Van Susteren, after reading the verdicts, told the jurors, "I concur with your findings." He said he believed evidence presented upheld their verdicts "beyond any reasonable doubt."

Cornelius figured in one of Outagamie County's most unusual court cases. He was found indicted Nov. 4 during one of his 18 court appearances, but has since refused the services of three court-appointed attorneys.

Specific Attorney
The Milwaukee youth contended he had the right to counsel by a specific Appleton attorney — at county expense.

Forty-eight times during the three-day trial, when questioned or asked if he desired to comment, Cornelius referred to

Congratulations, AAL

The Post-Crescent extends congratulations today to one of Appleton's finest citizens—Aid Association for Lutherans—on the occasion of the dedication of the beautiful new downtown headquarters building which dominates this city's skyline.

The New Chamber Building

There is a unique tabloid section published as part of The Post-Crescent tonight. It is the annual report of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce.

Normally this annual report is printed and mailed only to members of the organization. But this year, when the annual meeting coincides with the dedication of the distinctive new Chamber building in downtown Appleton, the organization decided to distribute its report to the general public.

This is evidence of the fact that Chambers of Commerce in general, and the Appleton Area Chamber in particular, have developed in recent years into true community service organizations rather than businessmen's clubs with a completely parochial point of view.

Just a brief reading of the projects in which the Appleton Chamber has been engaged in the past year will make this point. In some ways it was a frustrating year, particularly as concerns the four-year university and the airport, but in reality

The doubling of the 10-story office building on College Avenue is a living monument to the growth of this largest fraternal life insurance society in America. Appleton is proud of the fact that it is the home of this fine organization and the fine people who run it and work for it.

this does not lessen one bit the importance of the role the Chamber plays in the community.

As a matter of fact these set-backs have only served to reveal the far more important role Chambers of Commerce in the Fox Cities must play in the years just ahead. The Post-Crescent has remarked before that the voice of this metropolitan community of 120,000 people is not being heard abroad. And there is emerging a new dedication to make that voice heard more distinctly.

The new Chamber building is outstanding. The Appleton Chamber becomes one of only a few in Wisconsin to own its own home, and the attractiveness of the structure serves as a dynamic advertisement for the vitality of this community.

But a building is only as good as the activity which goes on inside it. The annual report of the Chamber testifies to the activity which took place in 1965, and to the expanded program of community service already planned for the next year.

The Pilots Object

The conflict between the Air Lines Pilots Association and several national air agencies as well as major airlines over the width of assigned flight corridors over the Atlantic will be disturbing to many passengers.

Until the middle of January the corridors above 29,000 feet were set at 120 nautical miles. But the 22 member governments of the International Civil Aviation Organization, after studies and conferences, cut the corridors to 90 miles. Since that time some pilots have refused to fly at the high altitudes where the corridors are narrower. Officially the Air Lines Pilots Association has protested the change and demanded that public hearings be conducted by the Federal Aviation Agency which backs the narrower corridors as safe. Flights under 29,000 feet use more jet fuel and are more likely to be rough and less comfortable for the passengers.

The major reason for the change was to permit the operation of more flights per day over the Atlantic. The increase in air travel has been phenomenal and the number of flights a day has grown from 30 some twenty years ago to an average of 200 now. The narrower corridors will permit four planes to fly where three had in the past.

But the pilots — or at least some of them — claim that the narrower corridors definitely increase the hazard of collision. The F.A.A., which says that only about 25 per cent of the pilots are refusing to fly the higher lanes, claims that studies over a five year period show that deviations of a plane from its pattern happened very infrequently. A British survey showed that "for at least 99.95 per cent of the time, aircraft keep within 45 miles of the assigned track." According to the president of one major airline, the figures

"expressed statistically, say there is a probability of an accident once every 560 years."

The pilots association disputes the figures, both as regards the number of pilots who are concerned and of the likelihood of more drift. A study by the association claimed that some 5 per cent of the planes strayed more than 45 miles off course and several strayed as far as 85 and 90 miles. "The recent drastic changes, . . . expose the flying public to a serious risk of mid-air collision," according to an ad run by the association.

The F.A.A. has been reluctant to hold public hearings on the controversy for fear the public will indeed become alarmed about the dangers of collision. But certainly if fear is a reason why some people do not fly, the solution would not be to lower safety precautions. Airline spokesmen have been more concerned about the "turbulence" at lower altitudes which means an interference with the serving of food and beverages and a more general discomfort to the passengers. But, as in the automobile industry, should not the major concern be the safety of passengers?

The public, however, is an unpredictable commodity. There could easily be all the flights needed per day without narrowing corridors if the flights were spaced out over the entire 24 hours rather than concentrated during part of the day. But people insist upon flying only at convenient times and while some flights are oversubscribed, others take off only half full. Nevertheless this would seem to place the major responsibility upon the industry and the F.A.A. Without the approval and cooperation of the pilots, who must understand better than anyone else their particular problems, it is difficult to see how the narrower corridors can be upheld.

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 14, 1866.

The British Government has ordered the opening and examination of all letters from the United States to parties in Great Britain suspected of Fenianism.

A New York newspaper says that James Stephens, Head Centre of the Fenian Brotherhood, has certainly escaped from Ireland. It was disputed at first, but now is generally conceded.

The Fenian Head Centre at Kingston, C. W., has been delivering a speech in which he claims there are 40,000 Canadian Fenians. The affair shows that freedom of speech is not gone in Canada yet.

A speculator, well known in Washington, D. C., as having made large purchases of arms and munitions, has sold, among other articles, to the Fenian leader Gen. Sweeny, a week ago, 20,000 Army revolvers and 17,000 forage caps.

There was a panic in Montreal on the 22d inst., over a report that 10,000 Fenians were moving for the Isle-Aux-Noix, on the St. Lawrence River. Canadian military authorities threaten that if the Fenians attempt to cross at Ogdensburg, they will open the guns of the fort at Prescott upon that city.

Phone Plays Tricks With Television Set

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ray Morrison finally discovered who was using his new color TV set when the family was out.

Four evenings in a row the set, equipped with an electronic device that turned it off and on by remote control, was going full blast when the Morrisons came home.

The next night Morrison was in the living room with the TV off when the telephone rang. The set immediately came to life. Research showed that, at certain times, the ringing of the phone triggered the control gadget.

McCarthy's Warnings About Reds Fully Vindicated, Chapple Writes

Editor, Post-Crescent:

As the ninth anniversary date of the death of U.S. Senator Joseph McCarthy on May 2 approaches, it is an act of simple justice to point out how completely history has vindicated Senator McCarthy in his efforts to protect America from Communist and pro-Communist infiltration.

The recent continuing study of questionable cases in the State Department, which has now reached 10 volumes of testimony with 10 more volumes to come, points out that the 1956 survey of the 10,380 State Department employees indicated 1,943 cases where "derogatory information" was uncovered, and not 100 or 200 questionable cases as Senator McCarthy charged. Of these 1,943 cases, 722 persons left the State Department before a final determination as to their security status. Of the remaining, the testimony to the U.S. Senate Internal Security subcommittee states, 858 individuals were recommended to be kept under "continuing surveillance" and not to be assigned to "critically sensitive" positions. Of these 858 persons, 258 were singled out as "particularly dangerous" from a security standpoint. Sixty per cent of these had high level assignments in Washington or foreign service. Scott McLeod, then administrator of the bureau for security and consular affairs, made this report in June, 1956. McLeod, later ambassador to Ireland, died in 1961. McLeod warned that the administration would not want to be hit by another Alger Hiss case, and pointed out that some of those on the list of security risks owed their positions to Hiss. In January, 1964, William H. Crockett, then deputy undersecretary for administration, said that as of that date 166 of those who had been listed as "particularly dangerous" were still employed by the State Department.

The roll call of those convicted of espionage such as Senator McCarthy warned against is tragically impressive: Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed for espionage; William Remington, Alfred Dean Slack, Harry Gold, Alger Hiss, Abraham Brothman, Judith Coplon, Valentine Gubitchev, Julian Wadleigh, David Greenglass, Morton Sobell, Whittaker Chambers, Elizabeth Bentley, and Louis Budenz all confessed to Communist activity and aided the government in exposing others.

Any reader who will inquire of his library for "Facts on File" and will read the entries by year up to the present under the heading "Espionage" will be shocked beyond words at the continuing nature of the situation that Senator McCarthy first warned about over 15 years ago.

Since the days of Senator McCarthy's warnings, Communist leaders have been brought right into the White House. Khrushchev was paraded from coast to coast under government sanction. American taxpayers have continued to pay for the United Nations TV time of Soviet leaders who have maligned and slurred America unmercifully and spread their Communist poison throughout the world at our expense.

It might very well be claimed that the blood of American boys would not be shed in Viet Nam today had Senator McCarthy's warnings been heeded. For in his book, "America's Retreat from Victory," he warned of the problems in the Far East. He warned against the recognition of Red China 15 years ago, as he would be doing today. He demanded that the anti-Communist Chinese be released from Formosa to fight against Communism on the mainland, which would have destroyed the Communist propaganda claim that the present Viet Nam war is a war of the yellow race to drive the white race out of Asia. Senator McCarthy knew better. He knew that the real issue is between that portion of humanity that seeks to follow Christian standards as against those forces trained to deny God and the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount, substituting force and hatred for all that our civilization stands for.

Here is what Secretary of State Dean Rusk reported to the U.S. Senate subcommittee on internal security as late as Sept. 6, 1965 (Part 9 of the investigation into State Department Security, U.S. Government Printing Office):

"The tactics and strategy of Communist aggression continues to require our intensive attention."

"While this force manifests itself more patently in areas abroad, such as Viet Nam, we are very aware that it also assumed another form by attempting penetration of the Department and its overseas offices."

"Our national security depends not only on powerful military defenses, and forceful, prudent, and successful diplomacy, but also on our ability to withstand this kind of penetration."

"The updating of the security files of all employees, including Presidential appointees and other senior personnel has received renewed emphasis during the past year. It is our intention to update every employee's security investigation on a 5-year cycle."

"Special emphasis has been given to the security of the Department's operations in Washington."

"We plan to implement additional procedures in our effort to improve the security of the State Department building."

"Particular emphasis has been placed upon the controls for using and safeguarding intelligence materials."

"Security is a 24-hour-a-day job, domestic as well as foreign, and I feel that the Department is taking a hard realistic approach which emphasizes the fact that security is an ever-continuing problem."

No clearer corroboration of the need for investigation of the type Senator McCarthy instituted in 1950 could be given than in these words of Secretary of State Rusk and in the continuing revelations of the U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee which still has 10 more volumes of this testimony to place before the public.

What a great and courageous and discerning leader Senator McCarthy was.

It may well be summed up in what Encyclopedia Americana (Vol. 18—McCarthy) says of him:

"Senator McCarthy's defenders maintained that he made a real contribution to the fight against communism by causing security precautions to be increased and by driving subversives to cover."

How history has vindicated him, and continues to vindicate him in what he stood for and what he fought for to the end of his life.

Ask Questions About Prices State Is Paying For Recreational Land

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — It is not always easy for the observant taxpayer to sit at a Conservation Commission meeting without a fleeting doubt about the wisdom of the hectic pace or land buying that has been maintained by that agency for such a long period.

Wyngaard

Are all of these thousands of acres of land being acquired so precipitately examined thoroughly with respect to their usefulness, and are the prices scrutinized carefully? Or is there a tendency, under the pressure of pointing to achievement in the heavily publicized outdoors recreation expansion program, to solicit options and to make purchases for sake of making a statistical record.

The Conservation Department's staff is a conscientious and honorable one. Nobody with any acquaintance with its members and the department's traditions can have any doubt on that score. But they are also human, and it is difficult for the bystander to resist a question occasionally about the judgments involved. At the last meet meeting of the Conservation Commission a couple of incidents strengthened vagrant doubts.

EXORBITANT?

D. K. Tyler, a new member of the commission, objected to what he called an exorbitant price for a proposed land parcel.

The lot is in a section of the north with which he is thoroughly familiar, he is acquainted with its owner, and he knows that the land has been offered for sale and has repeatedly been rejected by private buyers at the price asked.

Tyler was indignantly challenged by a couple of commissioners with more seniority. He should do his own bargaining with the owner, if he believes a better price can be arranged, they told him. But the essential point appeared to be avoided. Tyler believed that the price demanded was "exorbitant," in terms of its value to the state, which is a quite different thing than the matter of persuading the owner to sell at a lower figure than is demanded.

The commissioner of longest service of those now in office is Guido Rahr of Manitowoc. Rahr is given to brief comments in a low voice. But he is also given to considerable candor. On another land purchase proposal he said he could not vote approvingly because the price involved "gagged" him. Moreover, he said, he has frequently had the feeling during his long service. But perhaps more meaningful was the report given to the commission by the department administration that in a period of unprecedented land acquisition, it has not yet been required to prosecute to completion a single condemnation action. There is presented here a strange contrast with the experience of other public agencies acquiring land, and notably county and state highway departments.

SOME STARTED

Here and there condemnation actions are filed, the department officers said, but they represent a tiny handful in the face of thousands of parcels for which negotiations have been undertaken.

To some listeners, this may suggest that the department's pricing policies are generous, as Mr. Tyler and Mr. Rahr have complained. Or surely the department would have encountered long ago a sturdy or obdurate fellow who would prefer to have the courts figure out a fair value for the property the state wants to acquire from him? It might have been better for the Conservation Commission, in terms of public appearances, if it was forced occasionally to exercise its right to eminent domain. As the situation stands, it files condemnation suits only as a negotiation tactic.

One day a curious legislature may wonder whether the state has not sacrificed its rules of ordinary prudence in the hectic land purchase program, and may ask what is the goal in acreage of the land buying effort for which no one, apparently, now forsees an end.

There's Difference in 'Pleasure' and 'Joy'

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Almost no one is foolish enough to imagine that he automatically deserves great success in any field of activity; yet almost everyone believes that he automatically deserves success in marriage.

The history of all institutions goes through three stages — they are created by need, then sanctified by law, then they try to become a law unto themselves, in order to prevent the rise of rival institutions.

Speaking of institutions, all the political cant about the military draft being a "democratic institution" is meaningless; for so is a graveyard. Sometimes a man best serves his party by standing against it; Lincoln, as a congressman opposed our prosecution of the Mexican war, and was never again elected to Congress — but was elected to the Presidency.

Misery is endurable only when it is widespread enough; it is intolerable when we seem specifically to have been picked out by fate; this is why whole communities bear great burdens more equably than individuals bear lighter ones.

Why do nine out of 10 persons put an extra "a" in "rigmarole"?

Every system has its own built-in defects, which those within the system should try to rectify, rather than merely comparing them with the defects of other systems; as Winston Churchill once observed, "The inherent vice of capitalism is the unequal sharing of blessings; the inherent vice of socialism is the equal sharing of miseries."

It is dangerous to take as synonyms words that seem alike but are intrinsically different — for example, "pleasure" and "joy," which are very different kinds of things, as the pleasure-bent person finds out toward the end of a joyless existence.

Antique mythology never plunged more deeply into the dynamics of human psychology than when it coupled the goddess of love with the god of war.

The new "God is dead" theologians are guilty of overdramatizing their theology; what they really mean is "Santa Claus is dead," and the infantile concepts of the old man with the white beard sitting up in the sky must be replaced by an existential confrontation with the divinity (and the diabolism) within our own natures.

There are many kinds of "flights from responsibility," but the most damaging — because the most delusive — is the flight into removing the symptoms of ills, while ignoring the deeper causes.

President Johnson refused to attend the opening ball game. Next time maybe they'll believe him when he says he wants to be the umpire.

It was a natural mistake when LBJ sent Hubert to do the honors at the opening ball game — he forgot that in baseball you don't need a vice president to break a tie.

Scientists are studying that H-bomb to see if it was damaged by being under water so long. They may even call in the expert on such matters — John Cameron Swayze.

Five Days for GI in Viet Nam

War Not Just for Yourself, Richie Discovers on Third Momentous Day

EDITOR'S NOTE — It was now Wednesday and the scuffle butt said: "Only two more days and then it's hit the Viet Cong. For young Clark Richie it was a day of summing up: "We are fighting for more than our own skins." The following is the story of the third of five agonizing days in the life of a fighting American soldier in Viet Nam.

By JOHN NANCE

ward the jungled plantation where the Viet Cong was fortified in decades-old tunnels and trenches. "Give up, you are doomed. Turn yourself in, you won't be harmed."

On the perimeter of an American camp, atop his bunker just a rifle shot from the enemy plantation, a young soldier sat this Wednesday night huddled over a small transistor radio.

He was near Cu Chi, a town 20 miles northwest of Saigon in the heart of a Communist stronghold. The soldier and the others of the 2nd Brigade, 25th Division had battled for every yard in establishing this base camp.

In the dark, the chatter of the propaganda broadcasts made a strange background for the voice coming over the little radio. It was the President of the United States.

Words Drowned Out
His words faded from time to time and blasts from American artillery drowned them out every few minutes.

Clark Richie, 22, of Jay, Okla., put his ear next to the radio. He caught the President saying the United States stands for the self-determination of all people — that is why Americans are in Viet Nam.

Johnson quoted other presidents — Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy — and said America had made promises. He praised the American fighting man sacrificing his youth, and time, and maybe his life in Viet Nam.

Richie, unmarried, with a 58-year-old widowed mother and an 18-year-old girl friend at home, lay silent when the speech ended. Earlier this week he had said he figured America was here because if it didn't fight in Viet Nam now it would someday have to fight closer to home.

'Makes You Proud'
But with shells screaming overhead, loudspeakers calling, and the echo of Johnson's words in his head, he thought it over. "It makes you sorta proud," he said.

He slapped at mosquitoes boring through the repellent he had lathered on.

"It makes me think we are fighting for more than our own skins." He remembered the dark-eyed little girls he had instructed in their first English lesson the day before at Cu Chi.

Youth Tossed From Motorbike, Injured

COMBINED LOCKS — John Seigel, 17, 317 Wallace St., suffered abrasions to the face and a possible concussion about 8:25 p.m. Tuesday when the motorbike he was riding west on County Trunk Z left the road and hit a guy wire, throwing him from the bike.

He landed on his head about 30 feet from the point of impact. Seigel told Combined Locks police he lost control of the bike after hitting a patch of mud on the road.

He was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital in the Kaukauna ambulance and was reported in good condition today.

The children had looked up at the tall, red-haired Oklahoman and repeated after him: "Fine thank you. How are you?"

"I guess we're fighting for them, too," Richie said.

"But Charlie, as the GIs call the Viet Cong, I can't figure him. He has hardly anything, but he makes something out of everything — from our empty C-rations cans to bamboo.

"I hope — I know — we're better," he continued, "but when you see the VC die as hard as they do it's tough to understand. I'm amazed they still are effective soldiers."

Captured Charlies
Richie adjusted his steel helmet and glanced out over the barbed wire. "I've seen some captured Charlies — skin and bones. I couldn't believe they were the VC we'd been fighting."

Richie had spent six months as a helicopter gunner in Viet Nam last year, but said ground fighting is "much rougher, messy."

At dawn this same Wednesday, the guerrillas had opened up on the 1st Battalion about 200 yards left of Richie and his three buddies in Bunker 14 of B company, 2nd Battalion.

Richie was standing guard at the bunker then, while the others ate breakfast at the mess area. He passed up the hot breakfast. The feature was scrambled powdered eggs. He didn't like them so he opened a can of C-rations — "beef spiced with juices with water added" it said on the tin.

Too Warm
As the sun rose behind them, the men washed and shaved under the bamboo that shrouded the bunker. It was starting to be uncomfortably warm by 9 o'clock.

A buddy of Richie's, Pfc. Charley Slaughter of Muskogee, Okla., near Jay, where Richie was born and grew up, came by from a nearby bunker. They talked and joked and Richie brought out a letter from his girl friend, Sally Dietrich, in Jay. Slaughter read it slowly, commenting about this name or that incident.

Slaughter's chocolate brown color contrasted with Richie's freckled face and red hair. But both had athletes' bodies and in fact had competed together in basketball and football back home.

Later Richie said the relations between the white and Negro boys in the company were first-rate. "We've got a close outfit," he said. "We're together out here all the time. We depend on each other. We get along fine."

Attack Set

The heat reached its near-100 peak about 2:30. The men grumbled about the dust and ants and mosquitoes. But most talk was about the operation coming up against the Viet Cong. It appeared set for Friday, two days away, according to the best information they could get. Official word was due Thursday.

The men talked about being scared.

"Yeah, I'll have butterflies in my stomach," Richie said. "But we'll just go out there and the tremors will go away as soon as something starts."

"Gawd, I'll be glad to get out of here," someone said. "I don't know what's worse — crawling through that damned jungle with the claymores and booby traps and 'ol Charlie sneaking around; or to sweat in this heat and dirt and bugs and wonder when the hell something's going to happen."

"I'll sit here and sweat anytime," another soldier answered.

The restless men strolled off to dinner. Richie wandered along the line of bunkers and traded sarcastic jokes with half a dozen different troopers.

Dusk came, then night, and the propaganda speakers bawled out to Charlie: "Give up, you are doomed."

Next: The rumors are true.

Soviets Must Make Tashkent Pact Work

Moscow Attempting To Prod Pakistan, India Into Action

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Soviet Union is on the spot these days in the tumultuous and unpredictable arena of South Asian politics.

As spiritual godfather of the India-Pakistan Tashkent peace declaration, the Soviet Union now is faced with making it work. This is proving difficult.

Neither India nor Pakistan has implemented fully the Jan. 10 declaration and Moscow is busy behind the scenes, trying to get things rolling.

The United States, though for once it does not carry the burden of making something work in South Asia, is supporting the U.S.S.R.

A reliable source says the Soviet Union has been in touch with Pakistan in an effort to head off more trouble of the type that exploded into war last September.

Alleged Violation
Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India told Parliament that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin had assured her the Soviet Union would take up with Pakistan alleged violations of the Tashkent agreement.

The Soviets also frequently contact Mrs. Gandhi's government on points of dispute along the India-Pakistan border.

Moscow, for example, asked New Delhi to settle quickly and quietly a dispute over 36 acres of frontier ground claimed by Pakistan. India finally pulled out its troops.

Opposition members in Parliament charged last Friday that Mrs. Gandhi had been pushed into ordering the withdrawal by the United States and the Soviet Union.

Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan declared, however, that India had not surrendered its territory under pressure from the United States.

The 36 acres belong to India, "and there is no doubt about it," he added.

Soviet Prestige
Great pressure is on the Soviet Union because their prestige is closely linked to the Tashkent declaration's success — or lack of success.

After watching the United States try for more than a decade to solve the India-Pakistan dispute, the U.S.S.R. moved in boldly. The Tashkent declaration was claimed to be a resounding Soviet victory.

Moscow, and Kosygin especially, got a boost in popularity. Now, it appears the Soviet Union will have to work hard to maintain it.

These are problems: — At the Soviet insistence, India and Pakistan agreed at the Tashkent summit to continue meeting "at the highest and other levels." So far there has been only one ministerial level conference and both sides acknowledge that was a failure.

Diplomatic Relations
— Diplomatic, economic and cultural relations have not been restored to normal despite a pledge in the declaration that this would be considered quickly.

— Each side accuses the other of interference in internal affairs, although this is banned under the declaration.

The sticking point for the Soviet Union — as for the Americans in the past — is the India-Pakistan quarrel for possession of the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

The two South Asian nations are no closer to solving this dispute than they were before the Soviet Union arrived on the scene.

Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I had a big tax bill to pay when I filed April 15. Will the same thing happen next year?

A—If your income is subject to withholding, the graduated it-withholding rates which become effective May 1 should reduce where you filed your return of the size of the final bill you have to pay.

You may also reduce your final bill by payments of estimated tax, by decreasing the number of withholding exemptions you claim, or by having additional amounts withheld from your paycheck.

Q—We are moving and our refund hasn't come through. How can we be sure of getting it?

A—Notify the IRS office where you filed your return of your new address. Be sure to include your old address and don't pay by check, always get your Social Security number so a paid bill as a record of your that your return can be identified.

A change of address card should also be filed with your postmaster at your old address.

Q—Getting all my records together to fill out my tax form was a problem. Do you have any suggestions that might make it easier?

A—The most important thing is to be sure you have good records to start with. If you second installment by June 15.

Q—My boss says I have to file a new Form W-4 withholding statement. Is that right? What happens if I don't?

A—If you are married, the law requires you to file a new W-4 Withholding Exemption Certificate indicating that fact to be eligible for the withholding rates for married people. If you don't file you will be treated as a single person for tax withholding purposes. If you are single, you may wish to file a new W-4 to correct the number of withholding exemptions you claim, and thereby prevent incorrect withholding after May 1.

Q—I just took over my father's business. Do you have anything that would summarize the type of business you enter and the form of organization you should answer many of your ships or partnerships.

Weekend 'Bridged' in Competition

It would be difficult to imagine anyone more dedicated to a game than are duplicate bridge players. They eat and sleep the game, and develop memory boxes that permit them to recall every card played in a hand they came across six weeks ago and who played what and in which order.

A game never ends with the play of the last card. It is continued in conversation, often for weeks, until the absolutely correct way to play it is decided.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday brought many such devotees of the game to Appleton for the Northeastern Wisconsin Sectional Bridge Tournament. Over 200 tables were in play — almost 900 men and women pitting their skills against each other in prearranged hands.

Among area players who won scheduled events are Mr. and Mrs. David Meily, Appleton, Mixed Pair; Mrs. Warren

Peltier and Mrs. Ken Johnson, Neenah, Consolation Special Pair; Mrs. Richard Gregg and Geary Meikrantz, Oshkosh, first, and Miss Betty John and Dr. Kyle Ward, Appleton, second, Fox Cities Pair.

Sunday morning the Wisconsin Upper Michigan Bridge Association, at its annual meeting, elected Bruce Nelson, Eau Claire, president; Dr. William Horn, Green Bay, vice president; Mrs. H. J. Weller, Appleton, executive secretary, and John Fourness, Appleton, treasurer.

The Appleton Contract Bridge Club named directors to represent it on the Association board. Elected were Charles Miller, Lloyd Doerfler, Mrs. Weller and Richard Hamilton.

The next tourney is scheduled May 13, 14 and 15 at the Wausau Hotel.

The Appleton Club has announced that open duplicate games will begin May 2 and will take place at 7:30 p.m. each Monday through the summer at the Elks Club. Those needing partners may contact Mrs. Charles Miller or H. J. Weller.

Kyle Ward Jr., right, checks the scoring before signing the sheet that is turned into the tournament director. Mrs. John Fourness was director and Lloyd Doerfler, general chairman.

Tom Hadley, Neenah, left, studies his hand and all its possibilities before playing a card. Duplicate bridge tables all play the same hands and score according to how they compare with each other.

"Now Wasn't That a brilliant play" could be the translation of a smile suppressed by Mrs. John Schultz as she participated in the Open Pair Game Saturday afternoon at the Conway Hotel.

"Really Partner, that rule of 11 doesn't always work," might be the comment of Dennis Krahl, Kaukauna, as he contemplated the result of a hand.

Sessions of Saturday's Open Pair game were interrupted for a buffet supper and a bit of relaxation. Chatting above are Mrs. G. M. Eastwood, Mrs. Warren Naugler and Mr. East-

Radcliffe Girl Runs Ad For One-Year Husband

By HOLCOMB B. NOBLE CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — the ad in the student newspaper. The Harvard boys are lining up and commented: "I'd been for interviews with a Radcliffe planning to put an ad in myself girl who says she wants to get married for one year to escape a dormitory life. Other fringe benefits, like washing my socks."

Only married students at Radcliffe College can live off campus, so to get around the regulation she has placed this advertisement in the Harvard Crimson: "One-year marriage? Seems to be the only way for a Cliffe to get out of the dorm. I'll share expenses, am a good cook. Other details? We can work it out. Contact Crimson Box 2000."

So far 13 eager boys have snapped at the offer to try to work out the terms of the proposed one-year marriage. Richard Appleby, 20, of Great Neck, N.Y., replied by mail. "You sound interesting. Maybe we can work something out." He said he would wait until he had a chance to meet her before deciding whether to accept the offer.

"The trouble with American marriages is that we don't have enough practical experience. Maybe this sort of thing is just what we need," he said. The Radcliffe girl declined to identify herself because she didn't want "a whole bunch of nuts calling me."

"I just want to live off campus and earn my degree in history," she said, because its "quieter there and I can get more work done."

She said she has blue eyes, auburn hair and is five feet tall. "I really want a roommate, not a husband," she said, "but he's got to marry me to satisfy Radcliffe."

Eric Tomb, 20, of Cleveland, Ohio, a junior, also answered Wayne Jones, 21, of Wayne, Mich., said he answered the ad because he wanted to meet a girl with "that kind of a sense of humor."

Coed Sprints as College Sports Editor, Half-Miler

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — 880-yard run against Frederick College.

The half-miler on the Lynchburg College track team this spring is something special.

A girl.

The girl is Kathy Switzer, 19, sports editor of the school newspaper, the Critograph. She has the unusual, for a half-miler, statistics of 37-25-37. Pretty, too.

Kathy, a sophomore from Vienna, Va., says "I like to do crazy things."

Again on Saturday

Thursday afternoon, Kathy becomes the first coed ever to run for the Lynchburg College track team, competing in the

She's Improving

Kathy made the Hornet track team partly because she can run and partly because of a desperate shortage of runners available to Coach Aubrey Moon. Only 16 male students turned out for track.

"I doubt if she'll win, but I have hopes she'll place or show," says Moon. "She's not exactly a slowpoke."

Kathy's best time in the 880 is 2:36. The men's world record is 2:02, but Kathy has run seriously only about two months—and she is getting better.

Practice is drudgery," she says, "but two minutes of competition makes it all worthwhile. I wish they'd let women run the three mile. I'm just getting warmed up at a mile and a half."

Miss Switzer quit the women's Lacrosse and field hockey teams to concentrate on track. She also dabbles in fencing, karate and tennis.

After pumping her legs in the Thursday and Saturday track meets, Kathy will pump an accordion as her talent act in the "Miss Lynchburg" contest.

Antibiotics More Effective If Not Used Too Often

By ROBERT HOLTON

NEW YORK (AP) — A noted pediatrician who pioneered in the treatment of "blue-babies" said today some doctors are abusing the use of antibiotics for children.

"There is no denying that the introduction of wonder drugs has changed the practice of a medicine," Dr. Willis J. Potts said in an interview. "But there are too many instances where the administration of such drugs to children is being abused."

Noting that a patient may build up an immunity to wonder drugs, he advised that they should be used sparingly — or else, you will destroy their usefulness.

Dr. Potts, a native of Sheboygan, Wis., who is now retired, made medical history 20 years ago when he performed an operation on a 21-month-old "blue-baby" girl that allowed more blood to flow from her heart to the lungs.

The girl, Diane Schnell, of Westbury, N.Y., is an art student today at the New York Institute of Technology.

"She was as blue as a blotter when I first saw her," the doctor recalled. "Look at her today. She's normal and would have died in a few weeks if we hadn't operated on her."

Miss Schnell plans to attend the launching this week of a new book by Dr. Potts entitled "Your Wonderful Baby."

"I answer most of the questions anxious mothers usually ask about their children," Potts said. "And I try and show them how foolish it is in many cases to get all worked up and call the doctor in the middle of the night when the child may be suffering just some everyday ailment that will go away with proper care at home."

On the subject of wonder drugs, Dr. Potts said they "don't do one bit of good in battling a common cold or a minor virus. The physician should make certain before prescribing such drugs that the case warrants it."

Fashions Have Festive Flair At Little Chute Style Show

Miss Jean Fleming, Above, selected a tailored spring costume to model at the Monday evening event. An open jacket with mid-length sleeves tops a perky skimmer. Five sisters, at right, enrolled in the Village Board sewing program. Wearing their completed outfits are Mrs. Donald Goner, Mrs. Gerald Pynenberg, Mrs. John DeGoev, Mrs. Harvey Van Vreede and Mrs. Ronald De Bruin.

LITTLE CHUTE — The Village Hall was the setting for a style show in a "grand manner". Sixty-five models took their turns on stage Monday evening to show just what the home seamstress can accomplish.

The event was the culmination of the village sewing program. Classes meet weekly from September to May with different groups having lessons each day. Serving as instructors for the Village Board sponsored lessons are Mrs. Paul Hietpas, Mrs. Lloyd Vandenheuvel and Mrs. Josephine Tobin.

The evening took on a party air as a dance revue was presented by students in the Little Chute Village Board program. The stage was decorated with mums and hydrangeas for the procession of models and dancers.

Since the village does not have a Vocational School, the Village Board has taken over the responsibility. Members of the board and their wives were guests at the affair.

Mrs. Denis Stoffel Made matching outfits for her daughters, Susan, Denise, Cindy and Debra. She straightens Denise's collar as the girls prepare to go on stage and model their mother's handiwork. The annual event was held at the Little Chute Village Hall. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Ann Receives Grateful Note From Man Who Slowed Down

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I want to thank you for printing that letter from the man who wondered if males slow down sexually when they get older. I am 46 years old now and your answer was the only sensible information I've ever read on the subject in a newspaper or anywhere else.

About three years ago I began to slow down and I got pretty worried about it. I was afraid something serious was wrong with me. I sent away for love potions, "sex" vitamins, plus a lot of other phony junk I saw advertised in magazines. I'm

Now that I know I'm normal I've got a lot more pep. I can't

Dear Grate: Some men slow down from worrying about slowing down, which is probably what happened to you. I'm glad I could help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old boy who is just average looking. I don't have anything special going for me, like being big in athletics or any thing like that. But whenever I take a girl out a few times she goes nuts over me and I can't shake loose of her.

I hope I don't sound like some kind of an idiot, but honestly I need help. I have liked several girls but I don't want to get involved with anybody. When I date a chick three times she acts like we are engaged.

In the last eight months I have tried to break off with four different girls and I'm still getting letters and calls from all of them. What do you suggest?

—Big Headache

Dear Headache: The girls are getting encouragement from somewhere, Sonny Boy. Maybe you come on stronger than you mean to. My advice is to cool it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have two teen-age daughters (16 and 17) who feel that everything in this house is community property. They help themselves to my combs, hair brushes, hair rollers, stockings, panties and bras. It's always the same excuse — they can't find theirs or they didn't get around to doing the hand laundry.

When I raise the roof, my husband says, "Is a pair of stockings that important?" The girls smirk and I wind up looking silly.

If I'm wrong, please tell me and I'll never complain again. If he is wrong say so and mm and maybe with you behind me I can hang on to what belongs to me. — Nothing to Call My Own

Dear Nothing to Call: Girls do not suddenly — at age 16 and 17 — confiscate mother's property. They have been helping themselves to your things since early childhood — and getting away with it.

The time to teach kids about mine and thine is when they learn to talk. If discipline had been administered from the start you would not be having the problem now. And I must concede that dad hasn't helped much.

If you mean business tell your daughters that the next one who helps herself to your suit, as shown in a hand played recently in the Intercollegiate Championships.

Dummy wins the first trick with the ace of spades, and the contract depends on East's play. If East plays low, South makes the contract.

In any case, declarer leads diamonds until East takes the ace. If East still has the jack and ten of spades, his side can get only two spade tricks. If South covers the jack of spades, West takes the king, but then East must win the next spade with the ten.

If South can stave off the spades he can get his nine tricks with one spade, three hearts, four diamonds and a club. He will get these tricks if East blocks the spades.

Drops Jack
East should drop the jack (or ten) of spades at the first trick. When East gets in with the ace of diamonds he leads his remaining spade honor.

If South covers with the queen, West can take the king, nine and so forth. If South refuses to cover, East continues with the four of spades, and the finesse gives West the rest of the suit. Either way the defenders get four spades and the ace of diamonds, defeating the contract.

Unblock partner's suit when you have so many high cards that you cannot count on him for entries in a side suit. Don't unblock when your partner has most of the high cards. He will be able to get to his hand with a side suit if his main suit blocks, and it may cost you a trick to waste one of your high cards in his long suit.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: S J 10 4, H 9 6 5 2, D A 8 7, C K Q 3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 NT. This shows about 6 to 10 points in high cards, with no biddable suit higher than partner's suit and not enough trump support to raise partner's suit. In some bidding systems it is correct to bid one heart, but avoid bidding a suit of this kind unless your system absolutely calls for it.

Philosophy of Communism Heard by Junior Women's Club

Dissatisfaction with world affairs in modern times is a common complaint, stated Dr. James Regan, professor of philosophy at St. Norbert College, speaking on the philosophy of Communism at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Appleton Junior Women's Club. He went on to say that Communists also feel this but they don't plan on letting the world just go its own way. They plan to rectify all problems by instituting a perfect Communist state.

Karl Marx's Theory

This aim started in the 19th century when Karl Marx began his theory of remodeling social structures and instituting a perfect state. He was a philosopher with a difference. He didn't plan to overthrow the world by force, but to permit a perfect Communist state, almost a utopian civilization.

evolve after a period of strong dictatorship. He felt that the capitalist world needed to be replaced because of prevailing class and social strife.

Dialectical Theory

Marx's ideas were a combination of German philosophy, French sociology and English economy. He based most of his ideas on Hegel's absolute idea of dialectic theory. In this theory, there is a conflict of two opposites which produce a more superior form or idea. Another way to say it, the speaker says, is that a thesis conflicting with an antithesis will produce a more perfect synthesis.

Using the basic theme of the dialectic theory, Marx substituted matter and man for the thesis and antithesis. The synthesis became a superior nation or way of living. Here again the utopian idea is brought through Marx's Version.

Marx, an atheist, substituted Hegel's spirit with matter. He felt that materialism described life better than synthesis. Also, a man could make his own religion. Marx stated, "I hate all the gods. Religion is the ruin of all man." Marx saw matter as the real clash between the classes. As we know from history, the economic systems of the 19th century caused not only social conflict but national conflict.

In 1845 Marx began to colaborate with Engel. In 1847 the two were asked to write the platform for the Communist Party. They came up with the idea that to abolish class distinction would be the end of all the struggles. Dr. Regan explained. Since the struggles were caused by the way in which man produced and distributed goods, it would be dialectic theory. In this theory, government regulated the output of goods and paid the employees.

Surplus Values

Because capitalism is built on the surplus values and on the time employees spend producing the surplus, less pay increases the manufacturers' wealth and also increases the amount of surplus. With less pay, the number of poor also increases. Communism would do away with all of this, Marx and Engel, the speaker said, felt that a revolt was certainly needed.

They introduced the idea of a temporary state of dictatorship, which would exist until all men were "made over". A Communist state would then evolve from it with strict utopian relationship.

Dates For Final Stages During the question and answer period the speaker told how these theories stand up in modern times. In 1961 the Russian Communists decided at their party convention that the third stage of the dictatorship would start in 1971. By 1981 the final, perfect state would evolve. With a specific date projected, the Communists will struggle much harder to meet the deadline.

Half-Way Capitalism

Dr. Regan went on to say that Russia never really got rid of capitalism. Although under strict governmental supervision, they are now trying to overcome past motivations and starting to use more capitalistic methods. The Party is now giving manufacturers a little freedom in making goods consumers demand. The factory owners are also taking direct orders for merchandise from merchants instead of having the government order the goods.

The Russian space is so advanced because the people of Russia specialize in one field. Dr. Regan said. If the government decides what is to be made, people don't use their own initiative to produce. Most of the people feel that since the government is paying their wages, they don't have to like their work or work to make a product of good quality.

With the setting of the 1981 date, the Communists remain very optimistic about attaining a true Communist state.

Food to Eat

To quote Walter De La Mare: It's a very odd thing — As odd as can be—

That whatever Miss T. eats Turns into Miss T.

What does Miss T. eat? Super sandwiches, nuts galore, pizzas, fudge and more — and more — and more. All between meals, of course!

Small wonder that overweight is a universal teen problem. Have a chocolate bar between classes, a super sundae after school and a bag of nuts with TV, and you chalk up 1350 calories. That number is more than half the daily total you need to maintain normal weight. And there's still three meals to count in.

For the balance of nutrients your meals provide, you must snack habits. You would stop eat them. Your health, growth, vitality, skin and hair depend on the kind of thing slim girls eat. As three well-planned meals for teen girls total between 2200 and 2500 calories per day, you can see why you don't need the snack calories. And what you don't need turns to fat.

Were you to change your snacking habits, you would stop gaining and start losing. Here's the kind of thing slim girls nibble on: Tomato and fruit juice, fresh fruit, cheese crackers, pretzel sticks, no-cal pop. Try the scheme: you have nothing to lose but weight!

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

No. It is partly so. We eat because we are hungry, or because we enjoy the taste of our food. But there are other reasons. One experimenter offered 18 third-grade children all the cups of ice cream they could eat. Some of them lapped up 39 in 45 minutes. Obviously the eating was a combination of a contest and recreation. When pencils and crayons were passed out, the consumption of ice cream declined markedly. Eating is often a psychological, as well as a physical experience.

We are most interested in ourselves, not others! True — False — True. Not only popular writers but sober students of human behavior recognize self-interest as central for most people. The "self" in which we are interested, however, is not limited to the individual as such. A man's "self" includes his children, or his group, or his country, or

AAL Dedicates Office Addition of $5 Million

Serviceability was built - for materials has resulted in a single-unit look on the outside. Inside, the 1952 structure has been remodeled and updated, too, so that offices in both the original building and the addition give the appearance of oneness, both in decor and utility.

Started in 1902, the building reflects the atmosphere of solid, substantial progressive growth which has made Aid Association for Lutherans the largest fraternal life insurance society in America. AAL has grown from its 500 charter members in 1902 to about 800,000 members in 49 states and five provinces of Canada, with more than $3,276,000,000 of life insurance in force. About 550 are employed in the home office and there are more than 1,000 life insurance salesmen in the field. Almost all of the 9,000,000 Lutherans in the United States and Canada are eligible for membership.

The building was planned and designed to provide maximum service to members and potential members.

"We have built for the future," President Walter L. Rugland said in his annual report to the membership. "We have planned not only for our immediate needs but for those of 15 or 20 years from now as well. We have built carefully, calling upon our experience as well as that of others so that we will have the kind of a building that will meet the increasing demands of an increasingly sophisticated business world. We have built economically - not cheaply, but economically - to make sure that we get a dollars worth of serviceability for every dollar invested."

Tallest Structure

The building has 10 office floors, with a mechanical floor above, rising to a height of 183 feet above College Avenue. It is the tallest structure in Appleton. There are two basement levels, the lowest 30 feet below the surface of College Avenue. The basements house much of the heating, ventilating and electrical equipment, in addition to building service facilities and storage space. They contain more square feet than any other floors because they extend under the sidewalk to the curb line on both College Avenue and Superior Street.

Most of the air conditioning equipment is on the 11th floor, accessible by a stairway and service elevator.

Gross area of the addition is 147,500 square feet. Gross area of the entire building is 283,178 square feet, with 159,142 square feet of office area and 22,957 square feet of rental area. The expansion needs Many floors and remaining area is taken up by have open areas for the same service, storage and access purposes.

AAL's electronic data processing system is housed on the building is a central service fifth floor of the addition. Plans core which extends from the already have been announced to second to the 10th floors. It replace that system with a contains the elevators, elevator more modern and flexible computer system by 1969.

The flooring in almost all office areas is of rubber tile and wall panels and ceilings are paneled with Roman Travertine

Lunch Was 'On the House' Wednesday for employees of the Aid Association for Lutherans who were given a tour of the recently completed $5 million west addition to the AAL building. Official dedication programs were scheduled today followed by a series of open house section of the floors without passing through working areas.

Movable Walls

The walls separating the corridor from the working areas, like other partitions on most floors, are movable and can be changed easily to meet changing needs. An open office plan is used in most work areas - i.e., there are few private offices.

There are more than 20 small conference rooms which are used for committee meetings or when privacy is required.

The spaces above the ceilings contain the myriad of piping and other equipment required to supply heat, conditioned air and water to the various floors. The space also serves to deaden sound between floors. Power and telephone cables are in the cellular floor system.

The second floor in the addition has not been finished. It is being held for future use. The expansion needs Many floors and remaining area is taken up by have open areas for the same service, storage and access purposes.

On two floors, more colorful and decorative decor is employed. Much of the 10th floor, which houses the executive offices and board of directors room, is carpeted and wood paneled. The 10th floor also has a dining area and kitchen facilities and an officers' lounge.

Meeting Rooms

There are two meeting rooms on the sixth floor, one equipped with a stage. They will be used for training sessions and other meetings involving large groups. Wall dividers can be pulled back to make a single room including the employees' lounge, which can seat more than 500.

The west side of the sixth floor is occupied by an employees' cafeteria and kitchen. The cafeteria can seat 200 under ordinary conditions and as many as 400 if necessary. Movable wood screening has been used effectively to provide privacy when required.

A part of the lounge area is outfitted with tables and chairs where employees can play cards during their noon break. The lounge is equipped with reading materials and television. The sixth floor elevator lobby is paneled with Roman Travertine

New Deals Considered for Reacquisition of Munitions

Bombs, Shells Were Given, Sold to Germans

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department is considering new transactions to buy back and otherwise reacquire about 500,000 bombs and artillery shells previously sold or given to West Germany, it was learned today.

The shells and bombs would go into U.S. stocks and presumably would be available for the war in Viet Nam.

At the same time, the Pentagon is thinking of getting back about 5 million rounds of small arms ammunition, 35,000 small weapons and about 1,500 radios from the Germans.

This material would be redistributed under the military aid program to other allied and friendly countries, possibly including South Viet Nam.

Disclosed in Letter
The Pentagon's moves to reclaim this ordinance and equipment were disclosed in a letter from John T. McNaughton, assistant secretary of defense, to Rep. Durward G. Hall, R-Mo.

A copy of McNaughton's letter, dated March 31, became available after Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday, denying once again reports of bomb shortages.

In his letter, McNaughton said "the guiding principle on reacquisition is, of course, that we will pay no more for the material than was paid to us when it was sold."

Over Sale Price
Last week, the Defense Department acknowledged that it had bought back from a German firm 5,570 750-pound bombs at a price more than 10 times what the weapons had been sold for as surplus.

The bombs were sold to the German firm for $1.70 each and the Defense Department paid $21 apiece to get them back. It was explained that, among other things, the high price took into account expenses the German firm incurred in transporting the bombs, building facilities to remove their nitrates for fertilizer and for other business costs.

McNaughton told Hall the price of the war material to be reacquired from Germany cannot be given precisely because some of it was sold and some was furnished as grant aid.

Justice Department

Switch of Racial Agency Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roger Wilkins has his wish. After midnight tonight, he and his racial troubleshooting agency will be "where the action is" — in the Department of Justice.

The last obstacle to the transfer of the Community Relations Service out of the Commerce Department was removed Wednesday. The House defeated, 220 to 163, a resolution opposing the move. The Senate had done so earlier.

Thus the Justice Department and Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach shoulder even a greater share of the federal civil rights burden, which has focused more and more in recent years on the President's chief law enforcement agency.

Middle of Fight
"This is where we belong," Wilkins, 34, said after the vote. "This is where the action is, in civil rights. And I want this agency to be squarely in the middle of significant civil rights activities—not on the periphery."

The transfer—President Johnson's first, even if small, civil rights victory in Congress this year—was approved over large Republican objections that the government's mediation arm should not be in the same agency as its prosecutor.

In a literal sense, it won't be under the same roof. The agency moved on Feb. 14 into a Justice Department-leased office building.

Commerce Orphan
Wilkins, Katzenbach and other supporters of the transfer contend the Community Relations Service soon became an orphan in the Commerce Department after the service was created under the 1964 civil rights act.

Placed in Commerce because of anticipated resistance to the public accommodations provision of the law, the service soon found that businessmen were voluntarily complying at an unforeseen pace.

The service — usually known by its initials, CRS — says it has worked in 294 communities in 36 states since it was created to give the government an opportunity to try to head off racial tension through conciliation and mediation.

It has an authorized strength of 67 men, but President Johnson has asked Congress to increase the manpower allotment to 100 and the budget from $1.3 to $2 million.

Investigation of Subversion

High Court Considers HUAC Power to Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court takes a new look today at Congress' power to investigate subversion and the spotlight is on the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Backed by the American Civil Liberties Union, a former union officer convicted of contempt of Congress for balking at committee questions back in 1955 is challenging the committee's very existence.

The Justice Department is springing to the committee's defense with the argument that Congress cannot do its job properly if it is denied the power to compel testimony.

Opposing Precedents
Both sides, in briefs submitted to the court before today's hearing, cited past decisions by the justices to support their arguments.

The decision, later in the term, may turn on how the justices decide to tip the delicate balance between individual rights to freedom of association and the government's interest in staking out subversion.

This is the second time John T. Gojack, a former vice president of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, has come before the court on a contempt conviction.

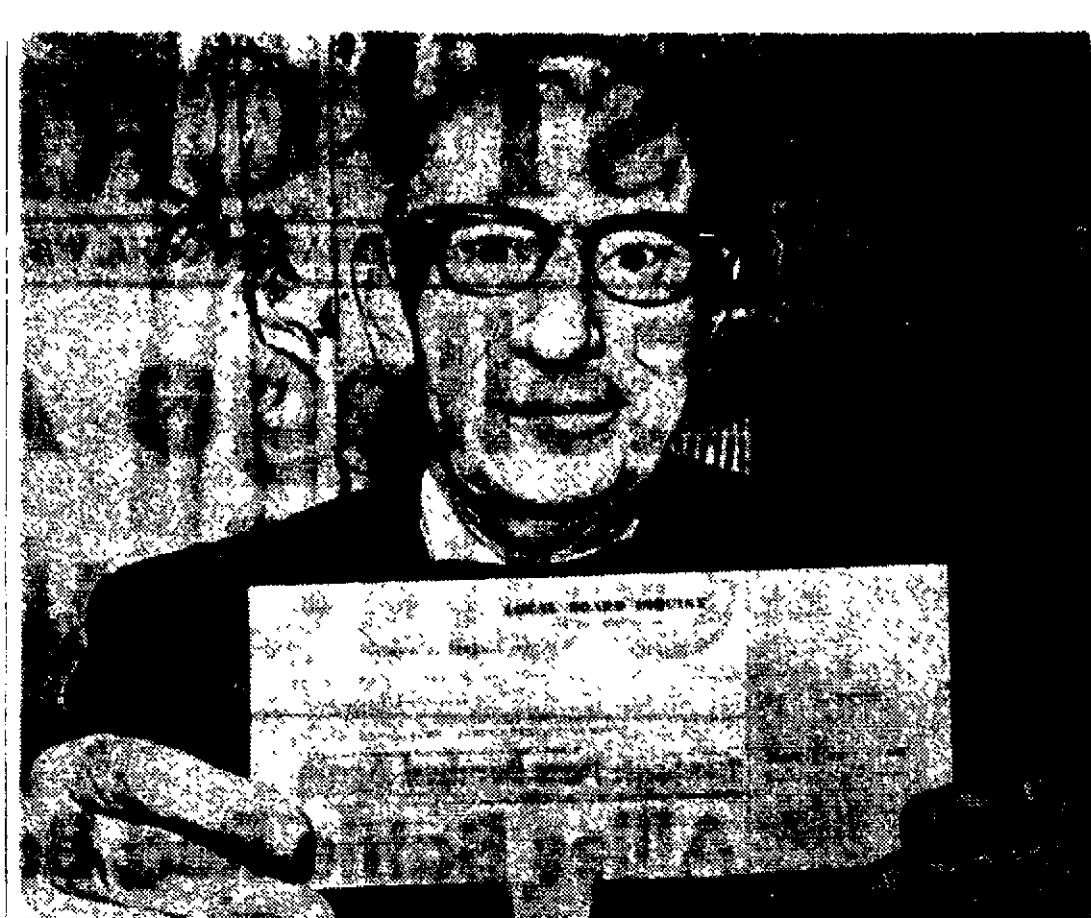

His first conviction for refusing to answer committee questions during a hearing in Washington was thrown out by the high court in 1962 because the indictment did not state "the subject under inquiry."

Appeal Rejected
He was indicted again the same year, convicted and sentenced to three months in prison, and fined $200. Last May the U.S. Circuit Court for the District of Columbia rejected his appeal and upheld the conviction.

Gojack was asked about 500 questions by the committee and, his lawyers said, answered most of them. Among other things, he testified that since 1949 he had filed non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley law.

The indictment was based on his refusal to answer six questions, the first of which was: "Are you now a member of the Communist party?"

The thrust of Gojack's argument is that the committee was invading his "First Amendment rights and his right to privacy" and that the hearing itself had an illegal purpose — exposure.

Recognition Given Negro's Family

Medal of Honor Winner Gave Life Because 'Man, You've Got to Care'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson presents the Medal of Honor posthumously today to a young Negro paratrooper who threw himself on a Communist hand grenade in South Viet Nam and absorbed the blast with his body to protect four fellow soldiers.

A White House ceremony was scheduled at noon to honor 19-year-old Pfc. Milton L. Olive III of Chicago with the nation's highest military decoration.

The youth's father, Milton L. Olive of Chicago, and about 20 other relatives of the hero were flown to Washington Wednesday night for the ceremony. The dead soldier is the third person and first Negro to be awarded the Medal of Honor for service in Viet Nam.

Fell on Grenade
Young Olive was killed in action against Communist forces in Viet Nam Oct. 22, 1965, after falling on the grenade. The citation credits that act with saving the four lives.

The citation states: "Through his bravery, unhesitating action and complete disregard of his own safety, he prevented additional loss of life or injury to the members of his platoon. Pvt. Olive's conspicuous extraordinary heroism and intrepidity at the risk of his own life above and beyond the call of duty are in the highest tradition of the United States Army and reflect great credit upon himself and the armed forces of his country."

For Olive's father, a slim, soft-spoken warehouseman, his son's death had an added purpose, he proudly told the Chicago City Council during a ceremony Wednesday.

Negroes Vindicated
"During World War II" Olive said, "unfortunate statements were made about the service and bravery of the Negro to our country."

"I am convinced now that the service the Negro soldier has given in Viet Nam has erased for all time the disparaging statements made about Negro servicemen," he said. "This honor gives us richer heritage."

Pfc. Olive's medal will join other mementoes in a glass-door cabinet in his father's room. They include photographs which show young Olive as a sister's grave, curious child looking with wonder at Santa Claus' beard; staring intently at a flock of chickens on his grandfather's Mississippi farm, and posing in uniform beside a Christmas tree shortly before he was sent to Viet Nam.

The cabinet also holds his Army uniform, two Purple Hearts (one awarded posthumously) and a cartridge fired at his military funeral.

"He was proud of his uniform," the elder Olive told the City Council, "and we felt it was a definite possibility he might decide to stay in the Army."

"He wrote quite regularly and usually told how he was getting along, the types of things he was doing, though he never mentioned combat," Olive said.

"But we never got the impression he was disturbed about it." His son was always religious and considerate, the father said, and always did more than his share.

Young Olive possibly gave his own reason for his brave act. "Man, you've got to care," he told a buddy shortly before he died. "Believe it or not, you got to care."

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Cmdr. James H.B. Morton, captain of the Coast Guard cutter Diligence, has been cited for his work during the exodus of Cubans in small boats last fall.

The Diligence made 54 "as-which show young Olive as a sister's grave, curious child looking

Sen. Russell Calls For More Bombing

Armed Services Head Favors Drastic Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell said today he hopes the United States will expand its bombing of North Viet Nam to tighten the military squeeze on the Communists.

Russell, Georgia Democrat who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee and is close to President Johnson, left no doubt in an interview he advocates drastic measures to step up the Viet Nam military effort.

But he declined to comment on the possibility that action may be taken to seal off the harbor of Haiphong, North Viet Nam's largest, although he has urged such action.

Russell spoke out after Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told senators Wednesday that "we will carry out continuing heavy air operations in the future." He said nothing about the targets to be attacked.

Carrier-based Navy planes have blasted railroad and highway bridges only 10 miles north of Haiphong. Saigon reports said air attacks had halted all main highway traffic in the industrial area between the port and Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital.

Russell said this was all to the good. He said wider ranging attacks should be supplemented with naval interdiction of supplies bound for Haiphong.

The intensified bombing has accompanied a lull in ground action in South Viet Nam which McNamara told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee may not last long.

Larger Operation
Testifying on a $917-million military aid authorization, the defense secretary said the Viet Cong appeared to have gone to the sidelines in a period of political turmoil in South Viet Nam. He said they probably are regrouping for larger future operations.

"I rather anticipate an increase in the level of the conflict," McNamara said. He added that the Viet Cong may launch a large scale offensive during the monsoon season, from May until July or August.

South Viet Nam elections are scheduled to be held in August.

Gromyko, his wife and a small group of Soviet Foreign Ministry officials flew from Moscow aboard a special plane.

Gromyko and Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani scheduled their first meeting for tonight. They will confer again Friday and Gromyko is also scheduled to meet Premier Aldo Moro.

There were widespread reports that Gromyko would ask to meet Pope Paul VI, and the Vatican neither confirmed that a meeting might take place nor ruled it out.

It would be the first meeting of a Pope and a top Soviet government official. Pope John XXIII received then Premier Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alexei Adzhubei, in 1963 when Adzhubei was editor of the government newspaper Izvestia.

The Italian Communist party newspaper L'Unita reported from Moscow today that Gromyko would investigate the Italian government's attitude toward the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the war in Viet Nam.

Gromyko in Rome for Official Talks

ROME (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko arrived in Rome today for talks with Italian government leaders and possibly a meeting with Pope Paul VI. NATO, European security and Viet Nam were expected to be the chief topics of discussion.

Broadcasters Ask Guard Against CATV

Antenna Regulation By FCC Called Only Halfway Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Association of Broadcasters urged the Federal Communications Commission Wednesday to modify its new rules governing community antenna television to give more protection to commercial TV stations.

Saying the stations need greater protection against the importation of distant signals and the duplication of their network and film programs, the association said the rules are only "halfway measures."

CATV systems receive programs from regular television stations with the aid of a master antenna. From the antenna, the signals are fed by cable into homes of subscribers.

A petition by the broadcasters filed with the FCC said restrictions of distant signals should be imposed by a general rule and not on the basis of case-by-case hearings as the FCC proposed.

The rule, the association said, should apply to all TV markets, not just "to the top 100 favored by the FCC."

The association said the rule for "same day" protection against CATV duplication of a local station's network programming should be scrapped in favor of the FCC's original proposal for such protection 15 days before and after the network show appears locally.

Street Resurfacing Gets Council Nod

$140,000 Budgeted, Property Assessment at 70 Per Cent

Appleton aldermen reaffirmed the city's special assessment policy Wednesday night, clearing the way for a citywide street resurfacing program this summer.

It was one of several major items acted on by the city council during the course of a marathon meeting which adjourned shortly after midnight.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president, warned that time was of the essence if the streets were to be repaired during the coming season.

Neenah Plans Development Authority

NEENAH - MENASHA - The Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce has planted a seed that may grow into a redevelopment authority for Neenah, as a companion body to the Menasha Redevelopment Authority (MRA).

The chamber's newly-appointed Neenah-Menasha Development Committee has scheduled a meeting next Wednesday to organize and set its objectives. Laying the groundwork for a Neenah redevelopment body is considered a prime aim of the group.

The generation of this idea was reported by John Konrad, chamber executive secretary, during a meeting of the Menasha authority Wednesday. Konrad stated, "It is our hope the Neenah City Council will establish a redevelopment authority in that city," and he pledged the chamber's support of the Menasha body.

The MRA also is preparing for steps along the route to reaching its goals. Members planned for meetings here with Jerry Pollak, of Victor Gruen Associates, urban planning consultants, and one with state officials in Madison.

Defers Action on Lease

County Board Approves Three Winnebago Airport Projects

OSHKOSH - Three airport projects received county board approval Wednesday afternoon but the board deferred until its May 19 meeting approval of the proposed lease for the all-purpose building at the fairgrounds.

The original lease ran for only one year as a trial basis and was to be examined at the end of that year for any revisions. Several minor revisions were made, the board was advised, and the basic terms of the lease are the same as for the first year.

Supv. Max Carpenter, Town of Rushford, agriculture and education committee chairman, said he would like his committee to study the lease since after Sept. 1 it will be in charge of the supervision of the fairgrounds.

He said the lease provided that the cost of janitor service for the building was to be deducted from the amount returned to the county as its half of the revenues received for the building. The idea was that

Outagamie Board Told Of Role of Agency for Industry Development

County Unit Could Arrange Low Interest Loans to Firms

Plans for a county industrial development agency were outlined Wednesday afternoon to the Outagamie County Board.

Gus A. Zuehlke, president of Appleton State Bank, and Delmar Drumm, executive secretary, both representing the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, explained provisions of the state's recently-enacted "Industrial Development Law" to the county supervisors.

Zuehlke said the law would allow Outagamie County to set up a corporation that could arrange loans for industrial development at the same borrowing rate that municipalities get from lending agencies.

Lower Rates

"While the prime rate for industry today is 5 1/2 per cent," he said, "industry, if it borrowed through this industrial development corporation, could get, maybe, 3 1/4 or 4 per cent."

Zuehlke said the new law, which went into effect in Wisconsin last June, exists in similar forms in 33 other states. The corporation is set up at no cost to the county and the majority of the non-stock corporation's control comes from county board membership.

Zuehlke pointed out that the amount of financing arranged by the agency "would in no way affect the county's borrowing power; it just makes borrowing rates lower for industry."

Indicated Interest

He said some industries already have indicated an interest in possible expansion in Outagamie County under terms of the new Wisconsin law. But, he added, many of these same industries have also indicated their interest to municipalities in other states where there already are similar corporations.

"We're looking primarily toward development of our existing industries," Zuehlke explained, and he told the board the county corporation would not assume any liabilities. "Any funds that are lost," he said, "would be lost by the lender."

Stressing that the development corporation would not cost the county any of its funds, Zuehlke said the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce would pay for the cost of organization and that funds could be solicited from industry to pay for various minor administrative expenses.

"This corporation is something we may not use for a long time," he said, "but then we might use it next week."

As with every other major proposal which came before the newly-organized board this week, the plan was referred to the county board's executive committee for study.

State Must Provide Funds To Stop Water Pollution

BY GOV. WARREN KNOWLES
The importance of water to our total existence is readily apparent. A productive economy and healthy community depend upon abundant and suitable water supplies.

Wisconsin is blessed with abundant water resources. However, the threat of increasing pollution endangers the quality and the utility of these resources.

Knowles

es. Indeed, the management of our water resources today will effect the quality of the resource available for future generations.

Our efforts to abate pollution have placed Wisconsin among the leading states in pollution control. An accelerated state water research program has recently been inaugurated to provide more insight into the complex problems of water pollution and to develop new means to abate pollution.

No Decrease
Yet, despite these determined efforts there has been no significant statewide decrease in the level of pollution. Significant pollution abatement gains have been made for the most part, but countervailing forces have caused a slight decline from previous pollution levels.

In view of this, the need for new impetus in water quality management is essential. As an initial step, I created a study committee to investigate our water resource problems and recommend remedial action.

The recommendations of the committee represent the collective ideas of water experts throughout the state.

Expansion Necessary
The need for an expanded role by the state in combating our pollution problems has been highlighted by the committee.

Present federal funds for sewerage treatment facilities are insufficient. Without financial aid, however, many communities are unable to construct adequate treatment facilities. Consequently, state financial assistance is badly needed to fill this void and to prevent local pollution problems from becoming worse.

A state loan program for pollution abatement would stimulate local governments and sanitary districts to replace overloaded or obsolete treatment plants. Under such a program, communities could obtain interest-free loans for sewerage facilities, with the state paying the interest charges.

Sewer Construction

In addition, the state financial program would provide assistance for the construction of sewer systems. This is especially important in controlling lake pollution in the populated areas around many of our lakes presently not served by sewer systems. State financial assistance would provide an important stimulus for the construction of common sewer systems to replace individual septic tanks. Current federal aids available for this purpose are negligible and provide little impetus for lakeshore owners to abate pollution.

Expanded efforts to increase pollution abatement hinge on available personnel. Stream surveillance has been hampered by staff limitations. Lake surveillance has been virtually nonexistent for the same reason. While the pollution control workload has rapidly increased in current years, a comparable increase in technical staff is essential to the success of any expanded pollution control effort.

Since each of our river basins has pollution problems and water use patterns differing from all others, water quality management can be carried out most effectively on a regional basis. Dividing the state into regions based on watershed drainage areas would encourage the most effective distribution of technical staff and assure the pinpointing of water problems unique to each region.

Forum Provided
In addition, the creation of a water quality board for each region would provide a forum for the discussion of regional water problems. Each board would be composed of expert technical staff members and citizens representing the various interests of the region.

In view of the recent passage of the Federal Water Quality Act compelling the states to set water quality standards for interstate waters or forfeit that right to the federal government, it is essential that the water pollution control agency in Wisconsin has the authority to compel with that act. It would be advisable to extend that authority over all state waters. Standards to protect our water resources could be established following public hearings.

The implementation of these recommendations would provide the impetus to significantly decrease the pollution of our waters.

While these proposals are necessarily costly, the continued pollution of our waters would impose a costlier economic and social burden upon us and future generations. Prompt and accelerated action is needed to save our valuable water resources from irreparable harm.

Costly Process
Pollution did not come about in the last year — it has been caused through attrition over a long period. We are not going to be able to correct the situation overnight and everyone must recognize that it will be a costly process. It will require education, patience, understanding and the expenditure of huge sums of money.

I firmly believe it is essential that we do something now to preserve our greatest natural resource — water.

UW Center Musician Conducts Music Clinic

Emmett R. Sarig, chairman of the department of music for the 11 university centers in Wisconsin, conducted a clinic for about 50 area music supervisors Tuesday at the Heid Music Store.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Sarig, was to inform the advisers of elementary, high schools and colleges about the courses offered at the centers and the qualifications required of young people interested in entering the music field.

The meeting was arranged by G. R. Jensen, president, Heid Music Co.

preserve our greatest natural resource — water.

We are fortunate to have many public spirited citizens who are vitally interested in the problems of pollution and are willing to do something about them. Public and private organizations will be of the utmost importance in encouraging unified action to protect our water resources.

100 Miles Per Hour
Howard Rifleman, 31, Green Bay, pleaded guilty of traveling 100 m.p.h. in a 55 m.p.h. area on U. S. 41 one-half mile north of County Trunk JJ. Rifleman was fined $100 and costs or 48 days. He was arrested on March 26.

Richard J. Chernish, 19, West Allis, pleaded guilty of traveling 100 m.p.h. in a 55 m.p.h. zone on U. S. 41 at the junction of County Trunk OO on March 18. Chernish was fined $100 and costs or 48 days in the Outagamie County jail.

Judge Keller also ordered suspension of driver's licenses for 15 days in each of the four cases.

County Board OKs Outagamie Airport Hangar

New Building Will House Turbo-Jets For Air Wisconsin

Because new larger airplanes will be delivered to Air Wisconsin this fall, the Outagamie County Board has agreed to build a new hangar to house the Appleton airline's growing aircraft fleet.

The board Wednesday afternoon approved a $4,000 appropriation for preliminary engineering and design work on a new hangar for Air Wisconsin at the Outagamie County Airport.

The resolution also authorizes the board's airport committee to advertise for bids once plans and specifications have been set up.

"Time is of the essence," Supv. Al C. Fischer, Appleton (District 16), newly-elected airport committee chairman, said. "We want this hangar constructed by mid-September when Air Wisconsin's new planes arrive."

2 Turbo-Jets

Air Wisconsin has ordered two twin-engine turbo-jet "Twin Otters" from DeHavilland of Canada, Ltd. The planes, seating 17 passengers, will have twice the capacity of those now being used by the airline.

John Conway, Air Wisconsin vice president, outlined the airline's ownership. He said its stock is owned by "about 200 local people and no one owns more than 4 per cent of the total stock. Our passenger growth has been very good," he said, "but we need faster and larger aircraft that will operate at a lower cost per passenger mile."

He explained that the airplanes, arriving in September, will not fit in the present fixed base operator's hangar building.

Conway predicted that "due to hourly flights with our new turbo-prop planes we are confident that we soon will be outboarding the other airline operating at the Oshkosh airport."

Rent Hangar

It was explained to the board that the hangar would be built with unexpended funds from the original $2.8 million airport bond. Air Wisconsin will rent the hangar from the county, so the hangar will be amortized and profitable to the county over a long period.

The board also approved taking another $7,880 out of the airport fund for an additional "T-hangar" unit in a new hangar building being constructed at the airport for smaller private aircraft.

As the result of still another board action pertaining to aviation supervisors approved a suggestion by John Dietz, Appleton (District 14) vice chairman of the airport committee. A W. Ponath corporation counsel, and members of the airport and public property and insurance committee are authorized to attend the two-day annual State Aeronautics Conference next week in LaCrosse at county expense. The public property and insurance committee members will attend because that unit acts as the industrial development committee on the county board. The committee would be concerned with development of an industrial park in the airport area.

Reduced Charge Nets $100 Fine

Carl A. Kortz, route 4, Appleton, was found guilty on a reduced charge of reckless driving and was fined $100 and costs with an alternate of 36 days in jail by Judge Gustave J. Keller Tuesday in County Court Branch 2.

An original charge of operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol brought by Appleton police was reduced to the reckless driving count on motion of the prosecuting attorney. Kortz had pleaded innocent of the first charge Nov. 29, 1964, and was free on $250 bond.

Steiger Talks at Chilton

Democrats Not Talking About The Great Society's Costs

CHILTON — "The Democrats do a lot of talking about the Great Society's programs they have devised, but they never mention the high society cost of living of the federal government," Assemblyman William A. Steiger told Calumet County Young Republicans here Wednesday night.

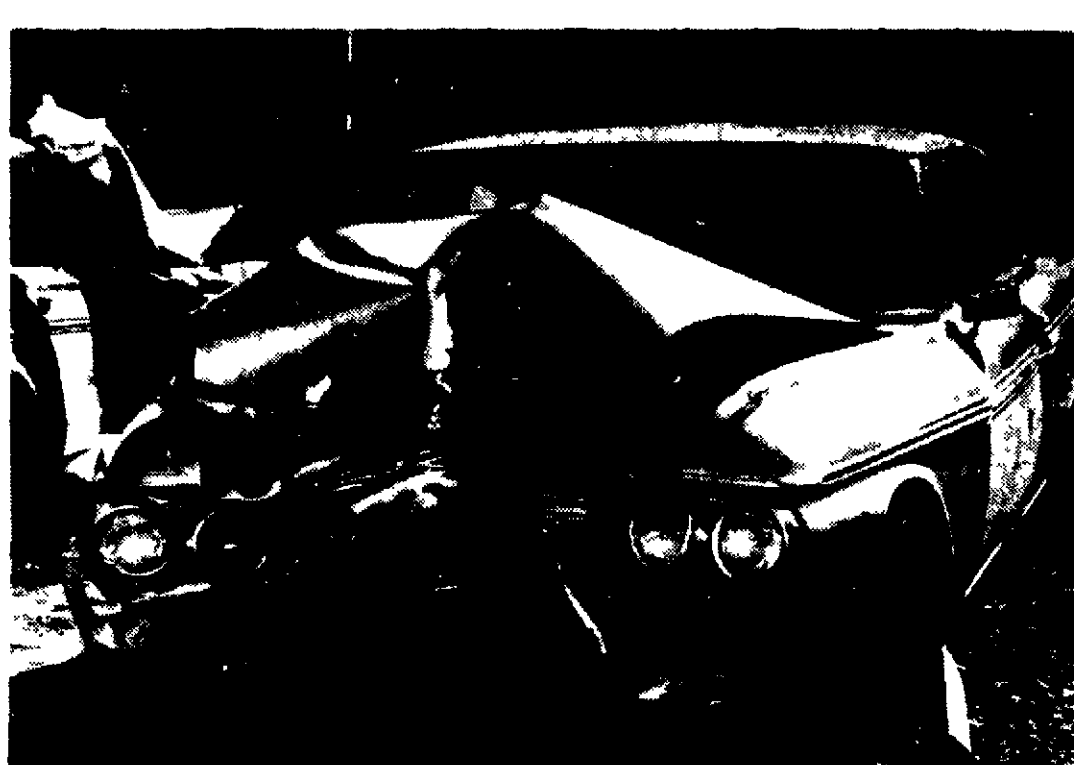

Steiger, of Oshkosh, is the Republican candidate for Congress in the Sixth District. He is serving his third term in the Wisconsin Legislature.

"Interest on our national debt is running at the rate of $22,000 a minute," Steiger said. "It is not surprising the President and his party rarely talk about it."

Steiger said the Johnson Administration has increased the cost of government by adding $1,582 more federal employees to the federal payroll from January, 1965 to January 1966.

"The cost of Great Society programs, plus the rising cost of living amounted to a 5 per cent sales tax in 1965 and wiped out any tax reduction an American thought he received," Steiger added.

"I doubt that our present Sixth District Congressman," Steiger said, "will talk about this rapidly rising cost of government. He knows he can't explain to the public's satisfaction the many costly programs motivated by politics."

Ronald C. Birsching, 28, 841 Grove St., Menasha, died about an hour and a half after his car struck a viaduct pillar on S. Mason Street early today. He was pinned in the wreckage about 15 minutes. His death was the first this year on Appleton streets. (Post-Crescent Photo) level structure would have been the best design for the site and was told it was not. He questioned the need for an elevator and Rich said in multi-level ramps they were "a great convenience to the public."

Klemmer also inquired about some of the engineering features and whether alternatives were considered. Rich said they were and the preliminary plan shown the council represented the best in his professional judgment.

It was emphasized the plans call for a mall area to the north of the proposed structure tying in with the Harland Bartholomew plan, and including "green spots" and landscaping.

Cites Original Vote

Klemmer said he originally voted against the plans because he felt they should have gone through the board of public works instead of being approved only by the parking commission and then sent to the council.

"That's right," injected City Clerk Elden Broehm. The preliminary plans had only passed through the commission. Council rules say buildings must be passed on by the board of public works.

Rich told the council his firm would expedite final plans so they can be reviewed as soon as possible and bids taken.

Tentative Completion Date

He said if the council followed its timetable which he has agreed to meet the Soldiers Square ramp would be completed and open to the public by March 1, 1967.

Ald. Alvin E. Lewis (5th) a member of the parking commission, said members agreed that the ramp should be done before College Avenue is torn up.

Asked his opinion of the preliminary plans and design of the ramp construction of which will be financed through parking revenues like the other municipal ramps City Planner Walter Rasmussen recommended they be accepted.

"We just can't wait any longer with College Avenue or the ramp," Rasmussen said. "The time is now for Appleton to do something different. We can't afford to overlook the opportunity for having a unique interest in Soldiers Square pedestrian mall."

To Meet With Merchants

Pointer announced the street sanitation committee, which he heads, will meet soon with merchants in the 100 block of E. College Avenue to discuss mall plans.

In another development representatives of the owners of some property the city must acquire for the ramp site met with city officials this morning. The city has obtained appraisals and the next step will be to negotiate for the property. Should negotiations not produce an agreement the city can serve a jurisdictional offer on the owners prior to condemnation and take possession of the property. It has been estimated the city now owns about 60 per cent of the land needed for the ramp.

Fractured Hip Not 'Death Sentence' Now

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the usual expectation of recovery from a fractured hip for a woman of 60? How long should it take? The patient is otherwise healthy. Is it necessary to remove the pin for complete recovery? — A.K.

It used to be that a fractured hip in an older person was a virtual sentence of death. Long weeks or months of immobility tion of health and the usual outcome was pneumonia or some similar illness.

Today the picture is entirely different, although it still can be a very serious condition. It depends on the nature of the fracture as well as the age and general condition of the patient. A feeble, elderly person may not be able to tolerate the shock and pain.

For a healthy woman of 60 (that's not so old) the prospects are good. Fractures can occur in various parts of the hip and the use of a pin depends on that.

No, such pins are not necessarily removed, and in some cases may be left permanently.

Once the fracture has been reduced and pin inserted, the patient usually is made to sit up, mean the ability to bear weight on the injured hip. Every case is different. Old bones don't mend as rapidly as young ones. However, X-ray shows the progress of the healing process.

Use of crutches or walkers may permit the patient to get around before the leg can support any substantial weight. Sometimes the patient's reluctance to try to get around in that fashion is emotional rather than real — but be guided only by your doctor as to how much urging is warranted, and when.

Since hip fracture is a common home accident, here are a couple of pointers to remember: Initial clue to a fractured hip, besides pain in the hip is that the foot is usually turned outward. The patient also is unable to raise his heel from the floor while lying on his back.

Leave the patient lying where he is until the doctor or ambulance arrives. The only first aid you can safely give is to keep the patient warm and as comfortable as possible.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 75 and have a heart condition and hardening of the arteries. I have been told that eating eggs would make the arteries harder. Is this true? — Mrs. L.S.

My dear lady, arteries start to harden in childhood. The rate at which hardening progresses depends on heredity, diet, amount of exercise and blood pressure.

The poor nutritious egg has been unmercifully and unfairly accused. Egg happens to contain a lot of cholesterol, but to put all the blame on that is to ignore all those other important factors.

At your age, eat eggs as you choose. They are nourishing, and they aren't going to change the condition of your arteries.

Note to Mrs. J.W.J. and Mrs. A.B.: Birth control pills will not cause fibroids. But the pills should not be used if fibroids already exist.

County Board OKs Outagamie Airport Hangar

New Building Will House Turbo-Jets
For Air Wisconsin

Because new larger airplanes will be delivered to Air Wisconsin this fall, the Outagamie County Board has agreed to build a new hangar to house the Appleton airline's growing aircraft fleet.

The board Wednesday afternoon approved a $4,000 appropriation for preliminary engineering and design work on a new hangar for Air Wisconsin at the Outagamie County Airport. The resolution also authorizes the board's airport committee to advertise for bids once plans and specifications have been set up.

"Time is of the essence," Supv. Al C. Fischer, Appleton (District 16), newly-elected airport committee chairman, said. "We want this hangar constructed by mid-September when Air Wisconsin's new planes arrive."

2 Turbo-Jets
Air Wisconsin has ordered two twin-engine turbo-jet "Twin Otters" from DeHavilland of Canada, Ltd. The planes, seating 17 passengers, will have twice the capacity of those now being used by the airline.

John Conway, Air Wisconsin vice president, outlined the airline's ownership. He said its stock is owned by "about 200 local people and no one owns more than 4 per cent of the total stock. Our passenger growth has been very good," he said, "but we need faster and larger aircraft that will operate at a lower cost per passenger mile."

He explained that the airplanes, arriving in September, will not fit in the present fixed base operator's hangar building.

Conway predicted that "due to hourly flights with our new turbo-prop planes, we are confident that we soon will be outboarding the other airline operating at the Oshkosh airport."

Rent Hangar
It was explained to the board that the hangar would be built with unexpended funds from the original $2.8 million airport bond. Air Wisconsin will rent the hangar from the county, so the hangar will be amortized and profitable to the county over a long period.

The board also approved taking another $7,880 out of the airport fund for an additional "T-hanger" unit in a new hangar building being constructed at the airport for smaller private aircraft.

As the result of still another board action pertaining to aviation, supervisors approved a suggestion by John Dietz, Appleton (District 14), vice chairman of the airport committee and public property and insurance committee are authorized to attend the two-day annual State Aeronautics Conference, next week in LaCrosse at county expense. The public property and insurance committee members will attend because that unit acts as the industrial development committee on the county board. The committee would be concerned with development of an industrial park in the airport area.

Reduced Charge Nets $100 Fine

Carl A. Kortz, route 4, Appleton, was found guilty on a reduced charge of reckless driving and was fined $100 and costs with an alternate of 36 days in jail by Judge Gustave J. Keller Tuesday in County Court Branch 2.

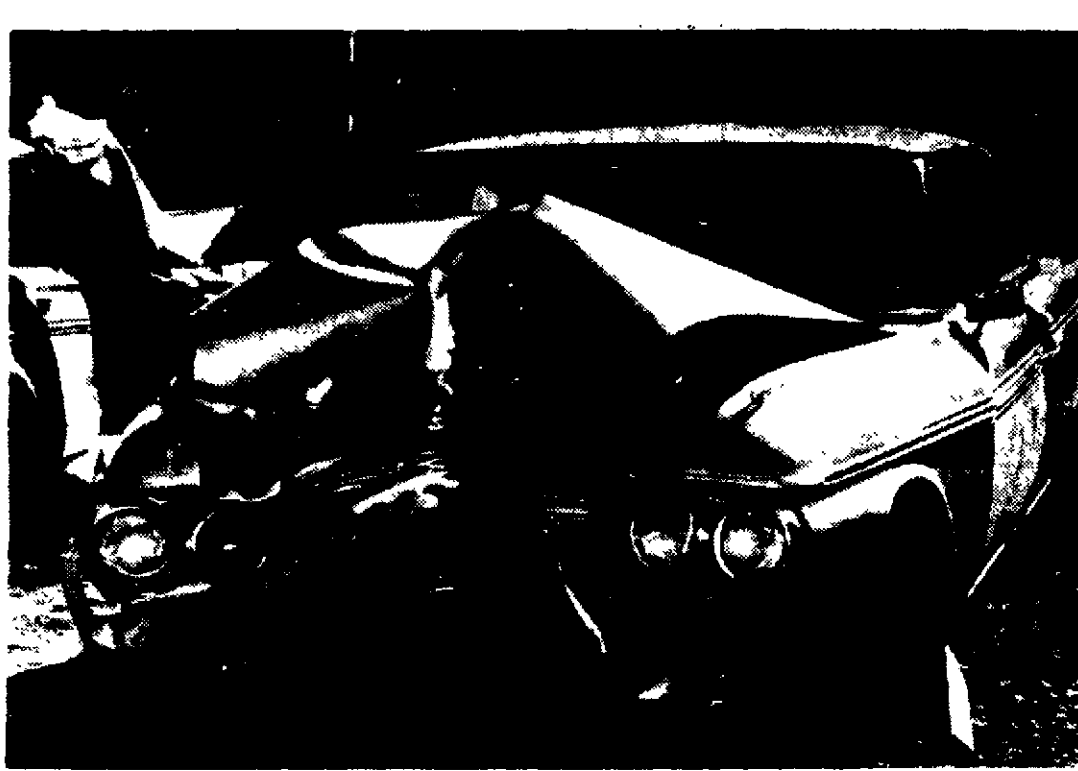

An original charge of operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, brought by Appleton police, was reduced to the reckless driving count on motion of the prosecuting attorney. Kortz had pleaded innocent of the first charge Nov. 29, 1964 and was free on $250 bond.

Steiger Talks at Chilton

Democrats Not Talking About The Great Society's Costs

CHILTON — "The Democrats administration has increased the cost of government by adding Great Society programs they have devised, but they never mention the high society cost of living of the federal government," Assemblyman William A. Steiger, of Oshkosh, is the Republican candidate for Congress in the Sixth District. He is serving his third term in the Wisconsin Legislature. "Interest on our national debt is running at the rate of $22,000 a minute," Steiger said. "It is not surprising the President and his party rarely talk about it." Steiger said the Johnson ad-

Fractured Hip Not 'Death Sentence' Now

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the usual expectation of recovery from a fractured hip for a woman of 60? How long should it take? The patient is otherwise healthy. Is it necessary to remove the pin for complete recovery? — A K

It used to be that a fractured hip in an older person was a virtual sentence of death. Long weeks or months of immobility of health and the usual outcome was pneumonia or some similar illness.

Today the picture is entirely different, although it still can be a very serious condition. It depends on the nature of the fracture as well as the age and general condition of the patient. A feeble, elderly person may not be able to tolerate the shock and pain.

For a healthy woman of 60 (that's not so old) the prospects are good. Fractures can occur in various parts of the hip and the use of a pin depends on that.

No, such pins are not necessarily removed, and in some cases may be left permanently.

Once the fracture has been reduced and pin inserted, the patient usually is made to sit up in two or three days. I say "made," because although the change in position may be painful and awkward, it is essential to maintain general health and avoid congestion in lungs and legs. This is an all-important element of recovery.

How long? I suppose you mean the ability to bear weight on the injured hip. Every case is different. Old bones don't mend as rapidly as young ones. However, X-ray shows the progress of the healing process.

Use of crutches or walkers may permit the patient to get around before the leg can support any substantial weight.

Sometimes the patient's reluctance to try to get around in that fashion is emotional rather than real — but be guided only by your doctor as to how much urging is warranted, and when.

Since hip fracture is a common home accident, here are a couple of pointers to remember. Initial clue to a fractured hip, besides pain in the hip is that the foot is usually turned outward. The patient also is unable to raise his heel from the floor while lying on his back.

Leave the patient lying where he is until the doctor or ambulance arrives. The only first aid you can safely give is to keep the patient warm and as comfortable as possible.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 75 and have a heart condition and the hardening of the arteries. I have been told that eating eggs would make the arteries harder. Is this true? — Mrs. L.S.

My dear lady, arteries start to harden in childhood. The rate at which hardening progresses depends on heredity, diet, amount of exercise and blood pressure.

The poor nutritious egg has been unmercifully and unfairly accused. Egg happens to contain a lot of cholesterol, but to put all the blame on that is to ignore all those other important factors.

At your age, eat eggs as you choose. They are nourishing, and they aren't going to change the condition of your arteries.

Administration Currently in Unhappy Time

Republicans, Too, In-Fighting Over Viet Nam Policies

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is in one of the most unhappy moments of its history and knows it and so do its friends, critics, Democrats, Republicans, Chinese, Vietnamese, and even Eskimos if they get a daily newspaper or listen to a radio.

But, for that matter, this is not pleasant spring weather for the Republicans, either.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, House Republican leader, never dreaming he might be tackled by one of his own teammates, decided it was a good time to charge through the center of the Johnson administration by accusing it of "shocking mismanagement of the war" in Viet Nam and a shipping tie-up there.

Refute Claim

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara called this "baloney." He said there was no bomb shortage and supply unloading was normal. His deputy secretary, Cyrus R. Vance, conceded there had been a shipping bottleneck last November. This made Ford look five months behind time.

Then Ford's teammate, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, got into the act, complaining that fellow-Republican Ford went pretty far with his charge of "shocking mismanagement." He asked: "Who are the shocked?" and a lot more.

All of which goes to show that the Republicans, like the Democrats, are at sixes and sevens over the war.

More Discord

McNamara forecast new political discord in South Viet Nam, as might have been guessed from some of the statements coming out of the Johnson administration in the past few days, which seems to be looking every which way.

And if you couldn't figure exactly what they meant, or where they might be looking, maybe the administration couldn't, either.

For instance, McNamara raised one of the strangest questions of the war Wednesday when he said Americans would not try to prevent the Communist Viet Cong from participating in the elections of South Viet Nam if they tried to do so peacefully.

Only Test?

Would they be permitted to cross the military lines to head south, provided they carried no weapons? Would that be the only test? But what if they had weapons cached in the south? How could they be identified as South Vietnamese with a right to vote at all? There are many questions that could be asked.

McNamara said it would make no difference to this country if South Viet Nam went neutral. Wouldn't it? If it chose neutrality it might do so under Communist influence and soon choose to become Communist. Then what was all the fighting for?

Last weekend Secretary of State Dean Rusk's long-range philosophy of dealing with Red China was revealed: No hope of changing the aggressiveness of the present leadership in the foreseeable future.

Try for Conference

But in the years ahead, perhaps with new leaders and by firmness and good will, there might be an era of good relations. Then Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield got an idea, which was not exactly new. Let's try for a peace conference with Red China and North Viet Nam.

Fine, said the Johnson administration, let's try. But anyone watching U.S.-Chinese relations for years, and the futile efforts to get peace talks with North Viet Nam, wouldn't bet on the chance.

This is one of the greatest international foul-ups of modern times.

Detroit Students Boycott School

DETROIT (AP) — Students boycotting Detroit's predominantly Negro Northern High School planned today to set up a "freedom school" despite a veiled threat of disciplinary action if they don't return to class.

Demands for the ouster of Principal Arthur Carty were rejected Wednesday by Detroit School Superintendent Samuel Brownell, who conceded that "strong disagreements exist at the teacher-administrative level."

Students have complained that they are receiving an inadequate education at Northern High School. They laid most of the blame on Carty, and some faculty members backed them up.

Michael Fenwick, Left, and Mark Barasic receive a check for $312,471 pounds ($874,918) from singer Janie Marden at London's Grosvenor House hotel Wednesday—their reward for hitting the Littlewoods soccer pool on a $12 investment. Fenwick, a former pop singer, and Barasic 28, Yugoslav-born but now a citizen of Australia, are roommates who met in January and worked out a "system" which they've been playing for a month. some instances were running back and forth between U.S. and South Vietnamese units who apparently caught them in a squeeze.

The Air Force fighter-bombers were sent back to the Mu Gia Pass Wednesday after reconnaissance showed that Communist labor battalions had gotten traffic moving again along Route 15. This is the highway, that winds through the pass and links up with southbound infiltration routes in neighboring Laos.

The spokesman said Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and F4C Phantoms tore into the highway at three locations within 15 miles of the pass, leaving huge craters.

Political Problems
With South Viet Nam's generals preoccupied with political problems, operations against the Viet Cong by government troops have fallen off considerably.

However, U.S. combat casualties continued at the usual level and South Vietnamese casualties rose again after dropping below those of the Americans for the first time in the war.

The U.S. military command announced that 89 Americans were killed, 635 wounded and five missing in action last week. Ninety-five Americans were killed, 501 wounded and four missing the week before.

The new figures raised American dead to 2,594 and wounded to 15,863 in the Viet Nam war since January 1961.

The Vietnamese command reported 141 of its troops were killed and 52 missing last week compared with 67 killed and 204 missing in the week of April 3-9. Wounded figures are not announced.

Small Actions

A Vietnamese spokesman said the higher government casualties came from "a very large number of small, scattered actions" rather than any major actions.

Government troops and police broke up a demonstration by about 1,000 students in the mountain city of Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon, as agitation against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime continued despite a promise by the Buddhist leadership to call off the protests.

Reports from Dalat said au-

Professors Ask Grades Not be Used for Draft

CHICAGO (AP)—A group of 142 professors from 15 Midwest schools, including the University of Wisconsin, asked Wednesday that academic grades not be used in determining draft deferments for college students.

A spokesman said all youths should be treated equally under the draft and that institutions of higher learning should not be made "instruments of the selective service system."

Dr. Richard Flacks of the University of Chicago said the present draft system was unfair and added, "We have an army now made up of disadvantaged youths who don't go to college." He proposed a national service for all young people who could do military or non-military duty, such as in the Peace Corps.

The signers came from 13 Illinois colleges and universities, UW, and a St. Louis school. Those signing from Wisconsin were not identified in the announcement.

The viaduct pillar was equipped with a flashing yellow light, a white illuminating light and a reflector sign, police said. It was drizzling at the time of the accident, Kemps said.

The body was released to the Wichmann Funeral Home and will be taken to a Sebewaing, Mich., funeral home. Birsching's parents live in the Michigan city.

Diann Halker, 18, of Kenosha, died early today in St. Mary's Hospital at Racine of injuries sustained Tuesday. Her car collided with one that had skidded into her path on Highway 32 just south of Racine.

Mrs. Chester Hakenson, Rt. 1, Evansville, was injured fatally Wednesday afternoon when the car she was in collided with one driven by a cousin on a county road during a rain storm.

The accident occurred just east of Evansville. Mrs. Hakenson's husband, Chester, was injured seriously as was the driver of the other vehicle, Mrs. Omar Hakenson, 38, of rural Evansville.

hearings attended by merchants and property owners.

Urges Approval

Marvin O. Wroldstad, university business manager said he wrote the letter because he had to be out of the city on business and could not appear before the council as had hoped. He said in no way should the council drop the plan for redesigning College Avenue just for the sake of getting federal funds.

"This council received one basic recommendation at the last public hearing and that was to carry out the Harland Bartholomew plan," Wroldstad wrote.

Ald. Glenn W. Thompson (13th) set the stage for debate and a series of roll calls on his motion that College Avenue be rebuilt according to its present design. Ald. Robert Ebben (9th), also from the southside, seconded the motion.

Motion Defeated

On the vote in committee it was crushed, 15-4, with Thompson, Ebben, Klemmer (11th) and Kohlbeck (15th) dissenting. It was Thompson's opinion that many things could be done on the sidewalk in the way of landscaping without having to redesign the street. He was interested mainly, he said, in a better flow of traffic.

Although the issue was injected into the discussion, the council made it clear the "new avenue" would have parallel parking, replacing the existing angle system. The council adopted the parallel plan in September of 1965.

Cites Costly Delay

Pointer pressed for a decision, recalling the College Avenue issue had received thorough airing and any further delays in getting the plans drawn would be more costly than many realized. Other aldermen said the decision-making on the

Reveal FDR, Churchill Heart Attacks

NEW YORK (AP) — Winston Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt suffered unreported heart attacks during World War II, says Churchill's private physician.

Writing in the current Life magazine, Lord Moran says the late British prime minister had a heart attack while visiting Roosevelt at the White House Dec. 27, 1941, shortly after America entered the war.

Moran says he was told Roosevelt suffered congestive heart failure in June 1944. He learned of Roosevelt's illness, he says, from Dr. Roger Lee of Boston in a letter received before the Yalta conference of February 1945.

Moran, who saw the American president at Yalta, wrote then that "to a doctor's eye, the President appears a very sick man. I give him only a few months to live." Roosevelt died two months later.

The day before leaving England for Yalta, Moran tells of receiving a letter from Lee, who wrote that "Roosevelt had heart failure eight months ago."

Lee, who had been president of the American College of Physicians and the American Medical Association, died last October.

is torn up next spring. The council agreed.

The vote to adopt and implement the Harland Bartholomew plan—redesigning College Avenue—passed by an overwhelming 16-3 vote with Ebben, Thompson and Ald. Al Stoegbauer (4th) in the minority.

A subsequent motion by Kohlbeck to seek whatever federal funds that might become available passed unanimously.

City engineers will now prepare preliminary plans for the entire project which will include street redesign and replacement of all underground utilities.

Jingo's Quiz Turns Up Interesting Facts

'Chipmunk Song' Stumped All Takers, but Many Questions Collected High Scores

BY JINGO

Jingo's recent quiz on the early days of rock and roll disclosed some interesting statistics. The emphasis was on the 1950s, which eliminated many of today's teens who are too young to remember those days.

The ages of the entrants ranged from 13 to 37. Many included notes requesting similar polls in the future, which Jingo will honor.

The first 10 questions resulted in a 53.5 percentage of correct ness. The final 10 were multiple choice, which proved easier (78.8 per cent). The overall percentage of right answers was 66.2.

- Here's how it went:
- 1) All but one recognized that "Love Letters in the Sand" was recorded by Pat Boone. One ballot said Perry Como.
  - 2) The best-selling record since the start of rock and roll stumped everyone. It was "The Chipmunk Song" by David Seville and the Chipmunks, which has sold over 5,000,000. Most popular answers were "I Want to Hold Your Hand" by the Beatles, "Diana" by Paul Anka, "All Shook Up" by Elvis Presley and "Hound Dog" by Elvis.
  - 3) Most could list three Ricky Nelson hits. Most often named: "Hello, Mary Lou," "Travelin' Man," "I'm Walkin'" and "Poor Little Fool."
  - 4) Only two persons named Gene Pitney's first hit ("I Wanna Love My Life Away"). Most thought it was "Town Without Pity" (53 per cent).
  - 5) J. P. Richardson, better

- known as the Big Bopper, recorded "Chantilly Lane." About 71 per cent got it right, but 23 per cent did not reply.
- 6) The first rock and roll hit by Bill Haley and the Comets was "Rock Around the Clock." All but one knew it.
- 7) The top hit of 1956, the flip side of "Hound Dog," was Presley's "Don't Be Cruel." A total of 59 per cent got it right; 35 per cent answered "Blue Suede Shoes" and 6 per cent "Heartbreak Hotel."
- 8) The man who recorded "Singing the Blues" was Guy Mitchell (60 per cent). Other answers: Pat Boone, Jimmie Rodgers, Jerry Vale, Bing Crosby and Steve Lawrence.
- 9) Half the entrants knew Del Shannon recorded "Runaway." The question stumped 38 per cent to the point of no answer. Others: Neil Sedaka and the Ventures.
- 10) Only one person correctly named Ray Stevens as the singer of "Jeremiah Peabody's Pills." Most popular wrong answers were Sheb Wooley and Jimmy Boyd. About 40 per cent didn't answer.
- 11) Stonewall Jackson recorded "Waterloo" (82 per cent). The rest named Jimmy Dean.
- 12) All but one named the Crickets as the first recorders of "Not Fade Away." The lone wrong answer was Sheb Wooley.
- 13) Again, all but one realized the Stroll was the dance initiated by the Diamonds in 1957. Only wrong answer was the Hucklebuck.
- 14) Most (80 per cent) knew the only non-Presley hit was "Bluejean Bop." The remainder chose "Too Much."
- 15) A total of 88 per cent correctly named Marty Robbins as the singer of "A White Sport Coat." The rest were split evenly between Pat Boone and Chuck Berry.
- 16) Sixty-five per cent knew Wanda Love My Life Away" was the only singer not killed. Several named Johnny Horton and the combinations of Eddie Cochran and Horton and Vincent and Horton. Vincent, incidentally, was seriously injured in the same auto accident in England which claimed Cochran, but he recovered.
- 17) A perfect score on this one. Everyone knew Bobby

Vinton's first hit was "Roses Are Red (My Love)".

18) Only one person knew that Link Wray recorded "Rawhide." One other named both Wray and Chet Atkins, but most (70 per cent) chose Duane Eddy. The rest had Atkins. Those who named Eddy evidently confused his "Ramrod" with "Rawhide."

Singer Don Cherry

19) A total of 76 per cent correctly named Don Cherry as the singer of "Band of Gold." Perry Como appeared on 18 per cent of the ballots and six per cent did not answer.

20) Another perfect score here. Everyone knew Don Gibson wrote "I Can't Stop Loving You."

Jingo would like to thank all entrants, especially those who included their own quizzes for the columnist. More polls of this type will follow, with a quiz on current pop music next.

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton (Dist. 8), a first-term board member, nosed out Supv. Paul Kostka, Little Chute (Dist. 34), for a two-year term on the joint Outagamie-Winnebaggo Fox Valley University Center committee. The vote was 24 to 23.

Celtics Beat Lakers, Take Playoff Lead

Sam Jones Hits 36 Points in 120-106 Victory

didn't come out here to split," said Boston Celtic Coach Red Auerbach, clarifying his team's intentions, in case there was any doubt.

The Celtics had just taken a 2-1 lead in the National Basketball Association final playoffs, with a decisive 120-106 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers, and Auerbach had a reason:

"The Lakers played well, but we played better."

The win Wednesday night before 15,101 fans at the Sports Arena gave the defending champion Celtics the lead for the first time in the final series and established them as favorites to win their eighth straight NBA title.

The series resumes here Friday night and returns to Boston Sunday. The sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be here next Tuesday and in Boston next Thursday, respectively.

Praises Celtics

Laker Coach Fred Schaus praised the Celtics and their veteran star Bill Russell:

"I thought we played a fine game, but when Boston shoots 48 per cent from the floor, it's virtually impossible to beat them. Russell was tremendous. Our big drawback was that we tired badly in the second half."

It was Celtic veterans Russell, Sam Jones and Tom Sanders, who led a third-quarter rally, giving the visitors a decisive advantage.

The teams struggled evenly through the first half, and the score was deadlocked 17 times.

The Lakers took a four-point lead, 29-25, at the end of the first quarter, but Boston came back to tie the score 54-54 and lead at the half 57-56.

Then Russell took control of the backboards, and Sanders and Sam Jones led an exhausting fast-break offense that dropped the Lakers from contention.

Sanders scored the first eight points of the period as the Celtics went ahead by 10 in five minutes.

They subsequently led by 17 at the end of the third quarter and coasted home.

Sam Jones' 36 points topped all scorers, and Sanders added 22 and John Havlicek 21 for the winners. Russell collected 14 points, but his 19 rebounds and defensive play were crucial.

Jerry West and Elgin Baylor again led the Lakers, totaling 34 and 18 points, respectively.

Barnhart to Appear

AHS Trackmen Make Home Debut Friday Against Neenah, GBE

The Appleton High School track team launches the outdoor segment of its 1966 campaign, and makes its home debut in a triangular test here Friday at 4:30 p.m. against Neenah and Green Bay East.

The Keith Kohlman-coached Terrers have competed twice on Manitowish's indoor track, losing a dual meet to the Ships and placing third in the Fox River Valley Conference indoor meet. East also competed in the FRVC indoor, totaling 9 1/2 points to 21 for AHS.

Neenah's competitive experience for the season includes a third-place finish in the Manitowish Invitational indoor meet and a dual meet loss (68-50) to Fond du Lac. GBE placed second to Sheboygan North in a triangular meet with the Sheboygan schools Tuesday.

Heading the Red Devil bid will be crack pole vaulter Jim Barnhart, a former state champion who has cleared 13 feet. Barnhart also presents formidable opposition for anyone in the high jump, disc and 800-yard relay.

Other East stalwarts include Brad Jameson, in the 880 and shot put; Jim Wright, the Devils have 12 lettermen back. Neenah's bid will be led by half-miler Bruce Rasmussen, weightmen Rick Bondow and Bob Pierce, quarter-miler Wayne Peotter and Chuck Wismer, in the long jump. The Rockets have 10 lettermen. Bondow is a doubtful participant because of an injury.

AHS vaulter Larry Einspahr could give Barnhart trouble, while miler Geoff Garrett and hurdlers Ed Olson and John Vogt are also expected to fare well.

Other Terror entries will act date in June was to be announced later.

5 Players Signed By the Packers

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Packers have announced the signing of four members of their 1965 "taxi" squad and tight-end Allen Brown, who missed the season because of an injury.

The taxi squad members are Bill Symons, Eli Strand, Wally Mahle and Larry Moore.

Braves Are Not Going Back to Milwaukee

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National League does not plan to give Milwaukee an expansion team in 1967 or 1968 and the Braves will stay in Atlanta, says the general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies.

"Our league is not expanding in 1967 and has no plans to do so in 1968 despite the court order in Milwaukee," John J. Quinn said Wednesday night.

Quinn, former general manager of the Milwaukee Braves, said, "We just don't think expansion is practical for several years. And the Braves are not going back to Milwaukee on May 18."

Dietzel Makes $25,000 a Year

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The president of the University of South Carolina said Wednesday that Paul Dietzel, head football coach and athletic director, makes a $25,000 annual salary.

President Thomas Jones told a group of engineering students he wanted to make the salary figure known "for the record."

There had been speculation that the salary was $35,000 annually.

ager of the Milwaukee Braves, said, "We just don't think expansion is practical for several years. And the Braves are not going back to Milwaukee on May 18."

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller at Milwaukee has found the Braves and the National League guilty of violating state antitrust laws and has ruled that the city must be given a team.

Roller said the Braves must be returned from Atlanta by May 18 unless plans to grant Milwaukee an expansion team in 1967 are submitted by May 16.

Joe Adcock's Pinch Single In 11th Beats White Sox

Angels Even Series at Expense Of Reliever Eddie Fisher; Buford Caught Trying to Steal Home game of the season Wednesday night on a pinch-hit single by veteran Joe Adcock of the California Angels in the 11th inning.

The score was 4-3 and it was the second extra inning game between the Sox and Angels, since the season opener at Comiskey Park April 13. Tommy McCraw hit a single in the 14th inning to beat Los Angeles in their first meeting.

Eddie Fisher, the White Sox star relief pitcher, started the 11th inning—the fourth Sox hurler. After getting two out Bob Rodgers singled and Paul Schaal walked. Adcock batted for Ed Suka, the Angels fourth pitcher, and drilled a single to score Rodgers to even the opening series at Anaheim.

The White Sox appeared to have a chance for victory in the tenth when Don Buford singled and moved around to third. But he was nipped at the plate when he tried to steal home.

Tie The Score

The Sox had tied the game 3-3 in the sixth when Tom McCraw smashed a two-out single after walks to Buford and Pete Ward. The Angels took a 3-2 lead in the third inning after loading the bases on two walks and a double by Bobby Knop. Knop scored on a balk by reliever Dennis Higgins.

The White Sox scored twice in the third on run-scoring singles by Floyd Robinson and John Romano after Tommy Agee got the rally started on a single and two stolen bases.

Joel Horlen, who started for Chicago, was knocked out in the second after two singles and a

Hank Aaron, newest member of baseball's exclusive 400-homer club, has his potent bat aimed at another ambitious target.

But Bobby Bragan's magic ruler may have missed the mark.

Aaron poled a pair of home runs that helped Atlanta rout Philadelphia 8-1 Wednesday night and the second one had Bragan's ruler giving a foot for every eight inches.

"It went between 575 and 650 feet," Bragan exulted in the Braves' dressing room. Then the Atlanta manager reflected for a moment. "I don't think the Babe ever hit one as far as Henry hit that one."

Aaron just smiled at Bragan's generous measurement and the comparison with the legendary Ruth. He said he thought the historic homer went about 450 feet on the fly. "It was one of the longest home runs I ever hit," he said.

What's next for the 32-year-old veteran of 13 seasons?

"Now I'm looking ahead to No. 500," Aaron told newsmen. "I'll be happy with another 100 before I finish."

Only four active players including Aaron's teammate, Ed Mathews, have more homers than the slugging right fielder. The others are San Francisco's Willie Mays, Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs and Mickey Vernon of the New York Yankees.

Lee Thomas also homered for the Braves and added a pair of singles. Ken Johnson went all

Six Hits So Far

The two homers gave Aaron six hits in 28 swings this season and the Atlanta slugger said he was pleased with the way he was swinging.

"I felt I was attacking the ball, something I hadn't done all year. I felt strong out there. That was the most gratifying thing," Aaron said.

Yankees' Amaro Has 2-Hour Knee Operation

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruben Amaro was placed on the disabled list by the New York Yankees Wednesday after undergoing a two-hour knee operation.

The shortstop, acquired from the Philadelphia Phillies during the winter, was injured in a game at Baltimore Saturday in a collision with teammate Tom Tresh. He is expected to be sidelined about three months.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, the Yankees' team physician, repaired both layers of a torn ligament on the inner side of Amaro's knee and also removed a partially detached cartilage.

Pick Buckeyes To Cop Baseball Title in Big Ten

Michigan, Spartans Top Threats to OSU Repeating Hopes

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion Ohio State again is tabbed as the team to beat as the 71st Big Ten baseball championship race opens Friday.

Coaches in picking the Buckeyes to repeat also like Michigan and Michigan State as main contenders.

It won't take long for the title chase to shake down because Ohio State, with a 13-4 pre-season record is at MSU (11-8-1) for a single game Friday and at Michigan (12-4) in a Saturday doubleheader.

In other Friday singles, Indiana is at Michigan, Northwestern at Iowa, Purdue at Illinois and Wisconsin at Minnesota. Saturday's doubleheaders, Indiana is at MSU, Northwestern at Minnesota, Purdue at Illinois and Wisconsin at Iowa.

Ohio State has top-flight pitching led by Steve Arlin and sophomores Dick Bobbs and Mike Swain — all righthanders. Batting punch and reserve strength are weaknesses. Bob Baker, Roger Sexton and Ray Shoup head the spring batting averages.

Veteran Lineup

Michigan has a veteran lineup with a strong hitting outfield topped by Dick Schryer, and solid catching with Ted Sizemore. If pitching holds up, the Wolverines could take it.

Michigan State also is equipped with veterans, geared by second baseman Jerry Walker and third sacker John Biedenbach. A fine sophomore prospect is first baseman Tom Binkowski.

Professional signings by pitcher Ken Holtzman and short stop Jim Vopicka riddled Illinois. But there still is strong batting led by Dan Humay, Jerry Szalka and Jim Reed.

Minnesota has good balance. Potential solid pitching could make Indiana a contender. Iowa boasts a sound defense but questionable pitching depth.

Northwestern must go with mainly a rookie pitching staff. The Wildcats have a slugger at the plate in Walt Tiberi who slammed eight extra base hits this spring.

Purdue lacks hitting power and lost its entire 1965 infield. Wisconsin is rebuilding, with catcher Tom Huset among the best sophomores.

4-Hour Rally Erases 300-Point Cage Deficit

SATELLITE BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Perseverance beat Endurance 6,788-6,776 Wednesday in what was billed as the world's longest continuous basketball game.

Each of the aptly named teams started with 10 players, all Satellite Beach High School students who began their 72-hour contest at 2 p.m. EST Sunday.

The teams played in four-hour shifts, with off-duty contestants sleeping on bleachers in the high school gymnasium and eating food brought in by girl friends, parents and spectators. The early pace was brisk, but slowed sharply during the evening of the first day. Endurance once trailed by 300 points, but a four-hour rally tied the score at 4,470 with 24 hours remaining.

One boy retired with a pulled muscle, another went out with stomach cramps, and David Stainback, whose idea it was in the first place, had only this to say afterward:

"I just want to leave here and never come back."

Braves and Lawyers Meet To Discuss Next Move in Suit

CHICAGO (AP) — Attorneys for baseball discussed the general situation Tuesday concerning a recent Wisconsin Circuit Court antitrust finding against the Atlanta Braves and the National League.

The meeting was held at the office of George Christensen, an attorney for the Braves, whose shift from Milwaukee to Atlanta precipitated a marathon court fight still far from finished.

An appeal of the court ruling is expected shortly. Christensen did not disclose who attended the session, but commented:

"Some interested lawyers met in my office to discuss the general situation. Period."

"We've got a 176-page opinion by Judge Roller (Wisconsin Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller) to contend with."

"It takes a long time to see what far-out theories the court is endeavoring to express. The opinion (Judge Roller's April 13 ruling) is wholly an unprecedented grab for state power."

"Necessarily, there will be several meetings of interested lawyers to consider what steps may be taken by baseball to contend with this unprecedented grab for state power by Judge Roller."

ABC Executive Levels Blast at Commercialism

NEW YORK (AP) — An executive of the American Broadcasting Co., said Wednesday competitive commercialism among the television networks is endangering the sports events they cover.

"An insidious kind of salesmanship which could be ruinous is creeping into television's treatment of sports," Rooney P. Arledge, ABC vice president in charge in sports, said in an article in Sports Illustrated.

"The drama of competition in the arena is becoming secondary," he said. "The medium that should be representing it is becoming part of the competition."

"What bothers me is when we start shilling for an organization, working into our commentary how well balanced a certain league is, extolling the opportunities it holds for youth, the average take-home pay, its liberal retirement plan or, as NBC (National Broadcasting Co.) has been doing, overtly helping to sign kids for the AFL (American Football League)," he said.

Arledge blames many of the problems on the announcers.

Talk Too Much

"He doesn't give the scores in a rival league, particularly if his game is 34-0 and there's a 28-28 game on another network," Arledge said. "He also gives the impression that the major event is the one he's announcing."

The main trouble is, announcers talk too much. They are like nature. They abhor a vacuum. Out of this come the banalities, the superlatives, talking about things they have no business talking about.

Despite his criticisms, Arledge insists television has been good for sports.

"The wide use of television has to stimulate attendance, as it has done in golf and pro football," he said. "If it's a good attraction, people would much rather watch it in person."

Good Classroom Showings Important, Says Tiedemann

Russ Tiedemann, of the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh athletic staff, has advised prep athletes to make strong showings in the classroom as well as on the playing field.

Tiedemann, former Kimberly High and WSU-O athlete and Hortonville coach, spoke Tuesday at the Appleton Rotary Club's annual banquet for the Appleton High School basketball team.

The speaker listed six suggestions for improving classroom work:

1. Try to set up a goal — and push toward it.
2. Realize your shortcomings.
3. Develop good study habits.
4. Learn to say "No" to party groups.
5. Stay "on top" of your classes. ... Don't let things "slide."
6. Don't skip classes. Some youngsters can't cope with the new freedom of a college schedule.

Waupaca '9' Victor Over Wittenberg

WITTENBERG — Waupaca, behind the 3-hit pitching of Rick Riddle, scored a 3-2 Central Wisconsin Conference triumph over Wittenberg High School in its opener here Wednesday.

Riddle bested Wittenberg's John Boda in a pitchers' duel, that saw both teams combine for only eight hits. Riddle fanned nine and walked only one, while Boda whiffed 13 and passed two.

Waupaca, trailing, 2-1, in the top of the fifth, scored twice when Terry Martin opened with a single and crossed the plate recently to enter private business on Jon Anderson's double, the extra base-hit of the game.

Anderson tallied on an error. Jerry Anonsen and Henry Stewart singled in the second inning as Wittenberg tallied three runs. Prior to that time, a stolen base, sacrifice and passed ball helped the Palmyra High School.

Waupaca 010 020 0—3 5 Wittenberg 020 000 0—2 3 Riddle and Don Peterson, Boda and Henry Stewart.

Colbert Replaces Damrau as Cage Coach at 'Paca

WAUPACA — Donald L. Colbert, 29, has accepted the position as head basketball coach at Waupaca High School. He will replace Don Damrau, who has been the head cage top of the fifth, scored twice when Terry Martin opened with a single and crossed the plate recently to enter private business on Jon Anderson's double, the extra base-hit of the game.

Colbert, a graduate of Platteville State College, has been the junior varsity coach at Platteville since 1963. Prior to that time, he served as a coach at a native of Shannon, Ill.

Colbert is married and has two children. Along with his coaching duties he will be the driver education instructor.

Whitfield Hit Boosts Indians Over Yanks, 4-2

Sixth Triumph for Unbeaten Cleveland; Sox Bow to Angels

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Johnny Keane supposedly has had a little talk with his New York Yankees. He might meet with more success if he had a long talk with Fred Whitfield.

Keane has minimized his meeting with the Yankees, but there was no way to minimize Whitfield's bat Wednesday night as the Cleveland first baseman continued his one-man assault on New York pitching by hammering a game-winning homer in the Indians' 4-2 victory.

Apparently upset at the Yankees' dismal start, Keane reportedly blasted the players in a behind-closed-doors meeting before the Cleveland series got underway. But he didn't place any special emphasis on the session.

"The meeting was of a routine nature," said Keane. "It isn't anything for the press. It was a private meeting. We just went over some mistakes."

Keane now has two more mistakes to go over — Whitfield's homers.

Tuesday night, Whitfield provided all of Cleveland's runs with a homer in a 3-1 victory over New York, then Wednesday year's AL home run king, came smashes in the eighth inning that broke a 2-2 tie and gave the unbeaten Indians their sixth victory.

Whitfield murdered Yankee pitching last year, hitting 10 of his 26 homers against New York, and his latest homers have nailed the Yankees into last place in the American League with a 1-7 record — the worst in either league.

Elsewhere, Baltimore rode the hitting of Andy Etchebarren and Luis Aparicio to a 6-3 victory over Washington, Tony Conigliaro hit his first homer as Boston tripped Detroit 5-3 and California edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 11 innings. Minnesota and Kansas City were rained out.

Yanks Led 2-1

The Yankees led 2-1 when the Indians rallied in the eighth with the aid of a throwing error by reliever Pedro Ramos. Vic Davalillo opened with a single. Leon Wagner then beat out a hit, and Davalillo raced all the way home when Ramos failed to cover first and Joe Pepitone's throw to the bag went into the outfield.

Wagner was cut down trying for third on the play but Ramos got into trouble again by walking Rocky Colavito. Whitfield then smashed a 1-1 pitch over the center field fence, bringing John O'Donoghue his first victory and handing Ramos his third loss.

Etchebarren doubled and scored the Orioles first run, then put Baltimore ahead to stay with a fifth inning homer that broke a 1-1 tie. Aparicio stroked two doubles and a single, driving in the first run in a four-run seventh inning uprising capped by Boog Powell's two-run double.

Bunker Gets Victory

Wally Bunker got the victory for the Orioles with Stu Miller's relief help while Senators' starter Pete Richter took the loss.

The Red Sox trailed the Tigers 2-1 when Conigliaro, last

Major League Stars

PITCHING—Claude Osteen, Dodgers, posted his third straight complete game victory, scattering seven hits in a 3-2 victory over Houston.

3 State Starters

McGuire began his offering with the first word of advice he received upon accepting the Marquette head basketball position. "I was told that I couldn't win with Wisconsin boys," the handsome MU mentor volunteered. "But last season we had three starters — Tom Flynn, Bob Wolf and Blanton Simmons — from this state."

"Messmer's John Johnson, I felt, was the state's top prospect this past season, but his grades chased us away from recruiting him," McGuire went on. "We did land Ron Rahn, a 6-5 Milwaukee South forward, for next year and are currently working on Grafton's Jeff Sewell, who will make his choice known around April 25," McGuire continued.

Explaining the MU recruiting program, McGuire said, "We have just five scholarships to give out in the entire country and this year two of those five are aimed at Wisconsin boys. If more confidence in our pitch-our first five prospects decided to enroll elsewhere, then we Victory for the Dodgers, a seven-hitter against the Astros.

Outfielder Al Ferrara walked and then drove in a tie-breaking run with a seventh inning single that sent Los Angeles in front to stay.

Pagan Delivers

Clendenon had opened the Pirates ninth with a single and moved to third on Bill Mazeroski's hit. Bob Bailey was intentionally walked before Pagan's fly ball won it.

The Reds had tied it in the ninth when Tommy Harper's leadoff single knocked out starter Don Cardwell who was working on a three-hitter. Pete Rose belted a triple off reliever Roy Face, tying the game. Then, Face retired Vada Pinson, Gordy Coleman and Deron Johnson, leaving Rose stranded at third.

Begin Working on a Second Five

Hitting on a number of points, McGuire stressed the need for athletes to study hard and work toward college degrees. "I never really hit the books, but times have changed now," he added. "When I was in school (shortly after World War II) many of us dribbled our way through."

"Play to win," McGuire went on. "But play by the rules. To win, you must have the 'killer instinct' and this also carries over into the classroom."

McGuire then told of "softening up the schedule during the past year (Marquette finished with a 14-12 mark after an 8-18 season) with the addition of North Dakota, Washington of St. Louis, Indiana State and Northern Michigan."

"Next year, though, it's going to be tougher since Dayton, Brigham Young, Minnesota and Villanova, all perennial basketball powers, will replace the weaker four," McGuire added.

"Sports is a means to an end," McGuire directed at the athletes. "Don't let it use you, you use it," he concluded.
